TOWN COUNCIL.

Council Chamber,
March 15th, 1910.

Council met in special session on Tuesday evening, Mayor T. W. Simpson in the chair.

Present - Reeve Alexander and Councillors Meng, Osborne, Waller, Kinnerly, Hawley and Steacy.

Mr. Schryver, proprietor of the box ball alley, appeared before the council in reference to a license for his place of amusement. He asked that the council fix the price at $25 per year, the same as other towns are charging. The matter was referred to the Printing and By-Laws Committee to investigate and report at the next regular meeting of council.

A communication was read from C. A. Anderson & Son asking permission to lay building material on Dundas street. Also from W. J. Jewel asking permission to erect an enclosure around the front of the late J. Aylsworth's store on Dundas, using about one-half the walk for said erection.

Permission was granted the above applicants provided they sign an agreement securing the town against any loss caused by said obstructions, and agreeing to keep a light burning at night.

A communication was read from Hon Wm. Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, acknowledging receipt of communication from the town clerk in reference to illumination of the town clock, and stating that he would give it his careful attention. Filed.

A communication was read from C. A. Walters, secretary of the Electric Light Commissioners, asking the council to make provisions in their estimates for $700 to be expended on capital account. Laid on the table.

A communication was read from E. W. Metcalfe, secretary-treasurer of the Napanee Poultry Association, asking the council for a grant of $25 towards the 1910 show of the association. Laid on the table.

Messrs. Fred A. Perry, John Paisley, P. O. Berkley and S. R. Miller petitioned the council for a permanent walk on the east side of John street, commencing at the post office and running south to connect with the permanent walk already built.

Petition granted.

Reeve Alexander, chairman of Finance Committee presented the treasurer's monthly statement, but owing to some errors in the report it was referred back to the treasurer for correction.

The Streets Committee reported in reference to the walk asked for by John Kinkley and others, on Roblin's hill. The committee found that the proposed walk was not in this municipality but was of the opinion that an understanding could be arrived at between the municipalities of Napanee and North Fredericksburgh whereby each municipality would assume half the cost. A crossing connecting the walks could then be built by the town.

The Fire Water and Light Committee reported recommending the payment of an account of $25 from the Electric Light Commissioner. The account was for repairs to the fire whistle, installation of red lights on fire alarm boxes etc. Adopted.

This committee also reported that the Bell Telephone Co. were willing to operate a general alarm system from their office, free of charge, in connection with the fire alarm and the committee recommended that a general alarm box be purchased and installed in the telephone office, the cost of same not to exceed $150. Adopted. They also recommended that fire

MARLBANK.

A number of farmers have started making maple syrup and report the sap running well. The farmers are busy shipping timber, and the saw mill is running full blast.

It is rumored that the cement plant will run again.

Horses For Spring.

This is becoming the important question with those who have work to do as soon as the frost leaves the soil. One twenty-five cent package of Improved Compound Iron Powders will put your horse in good condition. Put up fresh at The Medical Hall, Napanee's Largest Drug Store - Fred L. Hooper.

DESERONTO.

A very sudden death occurred on Tuesday morning at her home on Brant street, when Mrs. Ann Jane Sexsmith, aged forty-six years, wife of James Sexsmith, died from pleuropneumonia. The funeral service was conducted in St. Mark's church by Rev. B. N. de Foe Wager on Thursday afternoon, after which the remains were placed in the Deseronto cemetery vault. The late Mrs. Sexsmith is survived by her husband, one daughter, Miss Ada, and one son, Master Kenneth. The casket was laden with many floral tributes.

The Deseronto furniture factory was sold a week ago to Mr. Anderson, of Alexandria, and work is progressing favorably in getting it ready for a match factory. The big mill is being got in readiness for the opening of navigation.

Mr. Russell, of the Great Lakes Register, was in town on Monday inspecting the schooners Horace Taber and Theo Voges.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Yeomans, of Newburgh, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Knowles, of Stoco, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brown, of Schenectady, N. Y., and Fletcher Brown, of Schenectady, N. Y., attended the funeral of their sister, the late Mrs. Sexsmith, on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hooper and Miss Maggie Sexsmith, of Toronto, are spending a few days with their brother, James Sexsmith.

MARYSVILLE.

The snow storm on Sunday night soon changed our nice spring weather into winter again.

Mrs. J. C. Meagher is spending a few weeks with her daughter Mrs. J. B. Scanlan.

Messrs. William and D. J. Corrigan, Albert, spent Sunday with Mr. J. Corrigan.

Misses Liza and Winnie Portt and friends spent Friday with Miss Margaret Campbell.

Moving seems to be the order of the day: Mr. Will Martin moving to Shannonville, Mr. L. Rowley to Deseronto, Mr. Walker to Wilton, Mr. Jim Toppings to Tyendinaga Reserve, Mr. McEahan to Mr. Bell's farm.

Miss Lillie Drummey spent Sunday with Miss Mary Traynor.

Quite a number in this vicinity are suffering from severe colds.

The remains of the late D. Nash, Richmond, was interred in St. Mary's cemetery on Monday.

Quite a gloom was cast over this neighborhood about two weeks ago, when the sad news reached here of the death of James McNeill, Deseronto. Mr. McNeill was one time a resident of this place, but later removed to Deseronto. He was well and favorably known and much respected by all who knew him. He has left to mourn his loss two sisters, Misses Lya and Teresa, and three brothers, Mr. Edward at home, and Messrs. John and Joseph, of N. D. Much sympathy is extended to his sorrowing relatives.

Mr. Jack Meagher spent Wednesday in Odessa.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Drummey and daughter, Miss Lulu, spent Tuesday in Napanee.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beaubien, on Wednesday evening, March 9th, when their eldest daughter, Minnie, was united in marriage to Charles A. Gibson. The bride was becomingly attired in a beautiful suit of navy blue cloth and white silk blouse. Rev. James Cumberland officiated. Many beautiful presents were received by the bride. Among them was a handsome sideboard and maple clock, from the congregation of St. Paul's church, of which she has been organist for the past five years.

Missionary meetings were held in St. Alban's and Christ church, Emerald, on Thursday and Friday last. The speaker was the Rev. W. F. Fitzgerald, Kingston.

People have had to abandon driving on the ice on account of so much soft weather.

Quite a number of farmers from here have been buying hay on the main land.

Frank Beaubien, an old resident of the Island, had the misfortune to fall on Wednesday night last, breaking his leg.

Quite a number of the young people are practising for a "cantata".

EXAMINATIONS.

What a multitude of emotions the very word "examinations" calls forth in the mind and head of suffering humanity: fear, dread, rivalry, etc. Diverse are the thrills experienced by those who glory or have gloried in the rank of studentship. Now, we Collegiate-sites are no exception to the rule; and semi-terminally pray that "The Powers that Be" especially worthy principal, may be indulgent and lenient, to the superlative degree. Of course there are a few advantages to the present system of examinations, which we shall discuss later. We were certainly put to the test last week when confronted with the instruments of torture, i.e., examination papers. Finally we hope our worthy staff will not consider us as bad as we seem or as good as we seem, judging from exam. results.

Thanking you,

WATCH FOR THE COMET.

Cambridge, Mass., March 12 Halley's comet may now be seen on nights when conditions are favorable with the aid of an ordinary field glass. Prof. E. C. Pickering, director of the Harvard Observatory, says: "The comet is at present in the twilight region. It is in the line of the sun, and its brightness is dimmed by the lustre of the great centre of the solar system. Besides, it has not yet attained its greatest size. When it makes a traverse of the sun it will have attained its maximum brilliancy. That will be on May 18. It will be visible all through April, but will be at its brightest in May.

About that time, if clouds do not obscure it, it will be a dazzling sight. About a third of the heavens will be colored with a fiery gold. Its great flashes of light will play from one part of the heavens to another, and the scenes will be remembered for generations. Halley's comet has been noted for its brilliant displays.

There is absolutely no danger to the earth from the comet. The earth is going to shoot through its tail like a cannon ball through our atmosphere. The idea that any harm will come from the poisonous glass is ridiculous. When the comet is nearest the earth we shall be 14,000,000 miles away."

A. W. Reid, Belleville, died on Friday from grippe, aged nineteen.

An officer from the Agricultural Department boarded a cattle train at Prescott and made an examination of the live stock on the way to Montreal. When the train reached that city the officer had counted fifty-six calves, some of which were no older than one day.

Mexico City, March 12.—Abuse of confidence in the handling of 2,500,000 pesos ($750,000 in gold), was formally charged against George I. Ham, president of the suspended United States Banking company, by Manager S. C. Saunders, of the Bank of Montreal. At the same time negotiations for a settlement out of court of a claim of Harwood A. Simpson, a mine owner, who had also charged Ham with breach of trust in connection with the disappearance of certain mining shares, were halted by the court. Manager Saunders alleges that Ham by misrepresentations, obtained from the Canadian institution a loan of 1,500,000 pesos a few days before the United States bank closed its doors. The money, it is charged, was devoted to other purposes than those advanced in applying for the loan.

TERRIBLE SUFFERER FOR THREE YEARS

But Health Was Completely Restored
by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Extreme anguish; pains in the joints that all but drive one crazy—thus may inflammatory rheumatism be described. The victims are to be pitted—to them life is one long torture; they suffer by day and cannot sleep by night. Such was the condition of Miss A. Mercier of Ottawa, Ont. For three years she was a victim of this trouble and found no relief till she began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:—"For three years I was a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism. During that time I consulted and was treated by some of the best doctors in our city, but I found no relief in their treatment. I began to despair of ever being well again, when one day a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I procured three boxes and by the time these were used there was enough improvement in my condition to encourage me to continue their use. Three more boxes completely cured me and to-day I am as well as ever I was. I always keep a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the house and would recommend all who suffer as I did to give them a trial."

It was the new blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually made that restored Miss Mercier to health and strength. There is no medicine to equal them in making new blood and in this way they cure anaemia, rheumatism, heart palpitation, indigestion, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance and many other troubles. Sold by all dealers in medicine or direct at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MOTHERS FEEL SAFE WITH BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Mothers who have used Baby's Own Tablets say they feel safe when they have this medicine in the house, as the Tablets are a never-failing cure for the ills of babyhood and childhood. And the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine contains no poisonous opiates. Mrs. Walter Barr, Mountain Grove, Ont., says:—"My little boy suffered terribly when teething and from constipation. Nothing I gave him did the least good until I gave him Baby's Own Tablets and these brought him speedy relief. Every mother of young children should keep the Tablets in the home." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE MYSTERY CLEARED UP;

OR, THE HERITAGE OF MADAME YALTA.

The woman murmured her thanks and entered Rue Beaujon, which branched off from the Avenue de Friedland at the point where she had been interrogating the porter.

She soon discovered the magnificent entrance to the Yalta mansion, and there her hesitation renewed itself. She began to walk slowly the length of the iron railing, behind which was stationed the majestic porter who had introduced Maxime the morning before.

This personage, doubtless, intimidated her, for the nearer she approached him the more her footsteps relaxed, and she turned away her head as she drew the brass knob near the lodge.

The bedizened Swiss advanced majestically, measured the visitor with a glance, and inquired politely what she wished.

"I want to see Madame the Countess Yalta," she stammered.

"Madame the countess does not receive," replied the colossus; "but if you will give me your name and tell me why you come—"

The girl started and lowered her head; then conquering her timidity, raised it again, and said firmly:

"I am sure the countess will receive me if you will say to her that Mlle. Dorgeres wishes to speak to her."

The porter changed his tone instantly. He was not ignorant that the head coachman had driven Madame Yalta the day before to the house of M. Dorgeres, Rue de Surresnes.

"I beg mademoiselle to excuse me; and if mademoiselle will take the trouble to enter the waiting-room, I will inform madame the countess. She is still much indisposed, and I had orders to admit no one."

This discourse was punctuated by the striking of a bell, which resulted in the appearance on the stairway of a valet de pied.

Mlle. Dorgeres, introduced by the porter, was delivered into the hands of this valet, who conducted her to the apartments on the ground-floor in which her cousin had been received every day for a month past by Dr. Villagos.

She had not long to wait for the reply of the countess. The duenna who had introduced Maxime on his last visit came down stairs expressly to receive Mlle. Dorgeres.

"Mademoiselle," she said smilingly, "my mistress is so happy to receive a visit from you that she will not ask you to postpone it till to-morrow, though she suffers much just now. She hopes you will excuse her for receiving you in bed."

Alice stammered a few words of thanks and followed the woman-in-waiting.

The duenna conducted her by the same stairway which ended in the superb apartments on the first floor could have in possessing himself of a casket containing papers of nobody knew what sort, when the safe was full of gold and notes that were not touched."

"A sum of money was also taken," said the girl, in a stifled voice—"fifty thousand francs."

"It is not true," cried the countess.

"Alas, madame, it is too true! The cashier counted the money in the presence of my father and this Russian. A roll of bank-notes was missing."

"It is impossible!" said the countess, with an extraordinary confidence; "but continue, mademoiselle. Your father has given you no other details of this affair?"

"None, madame."

"He has not spoken to you, then, of a first attempt which failed, and which preceded the second by a few days only?"

"No. Had there been a previous attempt to rob the safe M. Vignory would have told me; it would have been spoken of in my hearing."

"Then he who gave me the information was mistaken."

"Georget, was it not?"

"You know that! Then you saw your cousin yesterday?"

"Yes, madame. Maxime brought the poor child to the office. I met them as I was going out with my governess, and it was then I had this conversation with Maxime. You believe, then, that M. de Carneol is in Paris?"

"I am certain of it. You will be surprised when I say that the day you were awaiting him in the Bois de Boulogne he must have fallen into the hands of some powerful enemy."

"You knew I was expecting him?"

"The day the great cold began I went to the lake in a sleigh with M. Maxime Dorgeres. You passed near us in a carriage with your governess. Your cousin expressed a desire to follow you, and, pressed by me, confessed that he wished to be present at a rendezvous you had given to M. de Carneol. Afterward I learned that M. de Carneol had not appeared, and that he was accused of an infamy—long afterward, unfortunately, for there was not time to avert what might have been prevented had I been better informed at first. But fate intervened. I fell seriously ill. Now the time has come to repair the evil I have unintentionally suffered. I want to find M. de Carneol, and when I have done so will take him myself to your father."

"My father would refuse to receive him."

"He must receive him, when I bring him the proof that he has been calumniated and is entitled to reparation."

"The proof?" repeated Mlle. Dorgeres, doubtfully.

"Yes, the proof; for if it is nec-dence this morning. But that doesn't matter. Tell me of your expedition with Georget. First, how is he? Do you believe he will recover his reason?"

"I hope so. He has transient glimpses already, but is not yet master of himself. He allows words to escape him which he would not do ordinarily."

"What has he said?"

"I took him to the office where the theft was committed, and he mentioned that he knew the words that opened the safe, the defensive mechanism that protects it,—details of which no one is in possession but the cashier, and which Georget could have learned only by acting the spy on his chief. I beg your pardon for telling you frankly my opinion that your protégé was the accomplice of the rogues, that he furnished them information, and perhaps assisted them more effectively. He recognized a hiding-place in which he must have been lurking for the purpose of opening the door to them."

"It is quite possible," said the countess, indifferently.

"What! you are not distressed to learn that Georget has been implicated in this affair?"

"Bah! a political matter."

"Political! how?"

"Undoubtedly. What did they take? A coffer containing unquestionably state papers, since it belonged to a Russian diplomatic agent. The proof that they wanted only the papers, is that they did not touch the money in the safe. Georget is the grandson of a woman of high birth who has had relations with Polish emigrants. He has, perhaps, followed the counsels of his grandmother in giving aid to these people."

"He has none the less been playing high, and if my uncle knew what this astonishing youngster has been doing, he wouldn't spare him—especially since money was taken as well as the casket."

"I have been told so, but can scarcely believe it. But I can answer that it was not Georget."

"Georget has merely connived at it. Moreover, in the remarks which he let fall, there was one which designated the thief."

"Designated him by name?"

ITCHING ERUPTIONS QUICKLY COOLED

Just a few drops of the famous D. D. D. Prescription applied to the skin will take away instantly the worst kind of an itch. We positively know this.

Oil of wintergreen, a mild, soothing liquid, combined with such healing substances as thymol and glycerine, will penetrate to the inner skin, kill the germs, and heal. The D. D. D. Prescription, made at the D. D. D. Laboratories of Chicago, seems to be just the right compound, as thousands of remarkable cures prove.

Don't go on suffering from eczema or any other itching skin disease, when relief is so easily obtained.

Just write the D. D. D. Laboratories, Dept. W. L., 23 Jordan St., Toronto, and they will send you, free, a trial bottle. This sample will relieve the itching at once, and prove to your satisfaction that here at last is the cure for your torture. Write for a trial bottle to-day. For sale by all druggists.

FUTILE DISSENSION.

"So you and your husband are always quarreling?" said the family lawyer.

"Yes," answered the young woman.

"What do you quarrel about?" "I forget the subject of the first quarrel. But we have been quarreling ever since who was to blame for it."

DEEP-SEATED COUGH CURED IN 5 HOURS.

New Home-Made Syrup.

(Cut this out.)

From Boston Press.

Progress in medical compounds never ceases, and now it is stated by a prominent medical man that any deep-seated cough or cold on the lungs can be actually cured in five hours by the clock. Opium and morphine have been resorted to in the past, as relief measures. But now it is learned that the system must be treated to rid it of inflammation and congestion. A tonic laxative cough syrup does the work so quickly and thoroughly as to be almost magical. What heretofore has taken weeks to cure can be accomplished in hours. Get this formula filled or mix it at home and always keep it on hand: One-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence, cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Shake the bottle and take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then take one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times a day until the system is purified and tones up. Give children less according to age. One ounce will usually cure a whole family, as the dose is small.

MEAN.

The pleasant thing that comes our way, A rain storm on A winter's day.

Chilled to the Bone? A teaspoonful of Pain-Exiter, a cup of hot water sweetened with warm molasses and a few substitutes, there is but one Pain-Exiter. Perry Davis—50c and 50c.

A BETTER.

Do they quarrel all the time? No, they are certain company now and then.

My husband is proud of his past behavior in the past.

will not ask you to postpone it till to-morrow, though she suffers much just now. She hopes you will excuse her for receiving you in bed."

Alice stammered a few words of thanks and followed the woman-in-waiting.

The duenna conducted her by the same stairway which ended in the superb apartments on the first floor through which she had conducted Maxime, but did not usher her into the oval chamber.

The countess was in her own room in an immense bed, a genuine specimen of the Louis XIV. age, with heavy curtains of Gobelin tapestry. A faint light was diffused through the stained-glass windows.

Alice could scarcely summon courage to advance. Timidity took possession of her. How was she to approach the woman whose pale face was scarcely visible! How should she explain this strange visit! And if Maxime had exaggerated! If Madame Yalta had gone no further than to express a sympathy for M. de Carnoel, without having undertaken to defend him against his accusers!

All these discouraging thoughts came to her at once; but her apprehensions were quickly dissipated.

A voice which sounded in her ears like celestial music pronounced these words:

"I knew you would come. You guessed I had something to say to you."

Alice colored with happiness and advanced quickly.

"Thanks for him and for me," resumed the countess. "If you had not come it is impossible to say when I should have seen you, for yesterday evening a new crisis came on which has not yet passed. Pardon me that I do not offer you my arms, but my physician has ordered me to be absolutely motionless. Sit down and let us talk."

Alice took her seat in a low chair by the bedside, and said in an agitated voice:

"Madame, I am profoundly touched by your welcome and can not better show that I am sensible of your goodness than by telling you the whole truth. I came without the knowledge of my father, because my cousin told me you were anxious to prove the innocence of M. de Carnoel. I wanted to know on what you founded your belief."

"Your love him; is it so?"

"I did love him," said Alice, with an effort.

"And yet you are betrothed to another?"

"I thought they showed me that M. de Carnoel had been guilty of something dishonorable. I yielded to the entreaties of my father, who begged me to marry. I am engaged in the eyes of the world, but my heart is my own."

"They have shown you that this young man has stolen. Why not break the word, since it is an odious calumny! Before replying to this calumny, permit me to ask who informed you of what took place and what you have heard?"

"My father. He told me that on opening the safe the cashier perceived the disappearance of a casket containing valuable papers belonging to a Russian. M. de Carnoel had left precipitately the night before at the very hour the safe was opened with a false key."

"And they concluded boldly that it was he. They did not stop to ask what interest this young man noel, and when I have done so will take him myself to your father."

"My father would refuse to receive him."

"He must receive him, when I bring him the proof that he has been calumniated and is entitled to reparation."

"The proof?" repeated Mlle Dorgeres, doubtfully.

"Yes, the proof; for if it is necessary in order to exonerate him the guilty party will denounce himself. I swear to you that it was not M. de Carnoel."

This reply was made in so positive a tone and with so much animation that the girl doubted no longer. Evidently the countess knew the author of the theft, and was resolved to denounce him to save the innocent one who was accused. Alice was blessing her, when a suspicion glided into her heart. Why did the countess undertake so warmly the defence of Robert? Could it be supposed she maintained his cause out of pure love of justice? She, whose life was the sport of her caprices! It was much more probable that she was interested personally in M. de Carnoel, and this interest must be very lively, since she offered to sacrifice some one to him.

"She loves him, perhaps," thought Mlle Dorgeres, sadly.

"I hope now that you do not regret having come," said Mme Yalta, "and that henceforth we are united in the effort to save M. de Carnoel."

"You have known him long?" she asked timidly.

"I do not know him at all; I have never seen him that I am aware of."

Alice's face brightened, and she was about to protest with warmth her devotion to the projects of the countess, but at this moment the lady-in-waiting entered, and said to her mistress:

"M. Maxime Dorgeres begs to see the countess immediately. He assures me that he brings news of importance."

"Go," cried the countess, "bring him in."

The duenna turned briskly on her heels, and as soon as she was left alone with the countess, Alice rose and said with some agitation:

"Madame, I beg you not to compel me to see my cousin. I would not for the world have him find me here."

"If you were to follow my femme de chambre you would inevitably meet M. Dorgeres. There is no way to avoid him but to go in there," she added, pointing to a door not far from the head of the bed, which opened in the midst of tapestry hangings.

"You will find it a very commodious prison, and, I think, will not be detained long. It will be in your power to leave it should you change your mind as to the convenience of a meeting with M. Dorgeres."

Alice ran to the point of exit indicated, and glided noiselessly into a vast apartment, a toilette boudoir filled with luxurious furniture, objects of art and curiosities in glass cases. She had no sooner disappeared than Maxime entered radiant. His joy was somewhat abated at being received, not as before, on a divan of state, but a real invalid's couch.

"What! you are seriously indisposed, and were out yesterday?"

"I did get out and I was wrong, having obtained nothing from M. Dorgeres, and paid for my imprucase, when relief is so easily obtained.

Just write the D. D. D. Laboratories, Dept. W. L., 23 Jordan St., Toronto, and they will send you, free, a trial bottle. This sample will relieve the itching at once, and prove to your satisfaction that here at last is the cure for your torture. Write for a trial bottle to-day. For sale by all druggists.

HER COME-BACK.

"I believe in saying what I think," said the young man in the flabby trousers.

"I've often wondered why you don't talk very much," said the girl with the trick of saying what she thinks.

A USEFUL INVENTION.

One of the latest inventions along the lines of gas and gasoline engines is a harvester engine. This consists of a 2 1/2 h.p. air cooled engine which operates the machinery of the binder, and relieves the horses of so much work. This outfit will doubtless be a very familiar object on the Western plains in the near future. (It is manufactured by the Gilson Manufacturing Co., Port Washington, Wis., and Guelph, Canada.)

ANOTHER PLAN.

He (encouragingly)—"I'm sure of one thing, my angel—you and I will never quarrel as that couple are doing."

She (with decision)—"Indeed, we shan't! If you ever speak to me as he did to her, I shall call the police!"

Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup is an unparalleled remedy for colds, coughs, influenza and diseases of the throat and lungs. The fame of the medicine rests upon years of successful use in eradicating these affections, and in protecting mankind from the fatal ravages of consumption, and as a neglected cold leads to consumption, one cannot be too careful to fight it in its early stages. Bickle's Syrup is the weapon, use it.

Some people talk so much that they have no time to listen to anything worth while.

We Must Go from heated rooms to the cold outer air, and the change sets us coughing. Curing winter colds is not hard if you take Allen's Lung Balm. A neglected cold is troublesome and dangerous.

A HAPPY DISPOSITION.

"In a little while beefsteak will be as expensive as quail on toast."

"Well," answered Mr. Bliggins, "then we can eat quail without feeling reckless and extravagant."

A VOICE FROM NOVA SCOTIA

STATES THAT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURES BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Ellie J. Mirk Suffered from this Terrible Ailment for Four Years, but Dodd's Kidney Pills Made Her a Well Woman.

Miscou Harbor, Gloucester Co., N. S., Feb 28 (Special).—That any remedy that will cure Bright's Disease will cure any form of Kidney Disease has long been admitted by the medical profession, and this place furnishes one more undoubted proof that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure Bright's Disease. For Ellie
J. Mirk, well known here, had Bright's Disease, and Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her.

"I suffered for over four years from Kidney Disease which developed into Bright's Disease," Miss Mirk states. "I had pains in head and back, and stiffness of the joints. I lost my appetite and suffered from dizziness and shortness of breath. I was weak and languid all the time."

"I was always nervous and could not keep my thoughts from wandering. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me.
To-day I have not one of these distressing symptoms."

Neglected Kidney Complaint develops into Bright's Disease, Heart Disease or Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure any and all of these.
But it's easier and safer to cure the earlier symptoms by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

SHORTSIGHTED WOMAN.

Do what he would, the landlord could never get the rent from his tenant, who when asked to pay up, went into a long rignarole about hard times, and made many promises, which always remained unfulfilled.

Sick at heart with hope deferred, he called again the other day, and listened to the same old tale from the lady of the house. It was a trying interview, but the landlord, a very good soul, said that rather than make a fuss about such a small matter, he would make her a present of the house; an offer which was gladly accepted.

When her husband returned from work, she told him what had transpired.

His indignation knew no bounds.
"I should think you had more sense than to take it," he yelled.
"Take it! Of course, I took it!"
replied his wife, surprisedly. "Why not?"

"Why, you daft idiot, we'll have taxes to pay now!"

SHE HAD THIS SORE FOR FOUR LONG YEARS!

How Zam-Buk Healed It.

You can't equal Zam-Buk for sores of all kinds, whether recent or of long standing. That is the opinion of Mrs. Wilson, of 110
Wickinson Ave., Toronto. She says:
"About four years ago a sore spot appeared on the right side of my face, just about the angle of the jaw. This spot increased in size until it became about half an inch

IS ALL FAIR IN TRADE

Motto Will Not be Adopted by Men Strong in Principle.

We hear men apologizing for their tricks in trade that a man must live. "For a piece of bread that man will transgress." Yes, a man must live—forever.

Never adopt the motto: "All is fair in trade." There are men inflexible in principle, upright and square, who have gone under, but came up again, from all their losses and failures, with a conscious integrity, sustained by the testimony of their associates that, though unfortunate, they were never dishonest.

When Chicago burned down and the earthquake destroyed San Francisco, the business men could go right ahead without cash capital, because they had acquired character-capital. A good man cannot be burned out and the earthquake can-

A SHOCK.

One of the first shocks the average young married woman gets is when she puts on a new gown and her husband doesn't know the difference.

Sleeplessness.—Sleep is the great restorer and to be deprived of it is vital loss. Whatever may be the cause of it, indigestion, nervous derangement or mental worry, try a course of Parnelee's Vegetable Pills. By regulating the action of the stomach, where the trouble lies, they will restore normal conditions and healthful sleep will follow.
They exert a sedative force upon the nerves and where there is unrest they bring rest.

SPEAKING OF ART.

Young Wife—This dish, dearest, is an original composition of my own.

Husband—Well, I should rather, my pet, that you would cook after the old masters.

THE LIMIT OF FOOLISHNESS.

We do a great many foolish things from day to day, but keeping the temperature of a living room up to 50 and above for the sake of a rubber plant, strikes us as about the most foolish of all.

A Soothing Oil.—To throw oil upon the troubled waters means to subdue to calmness the most boisterous sea. To apply Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil to the troubled body when it is racked with pain means speedy subjugation of the most refractory elements. It cures pain, heals bruises, takes the fire from burns, and as a general household medicine is useful in many ailments.
It is worth much.

MOTHER'S EXPERIENCE.

Fond Mother—"Now, look here,
George! I want you to break off with that girl. She is very pretty, and all that, but I know her too well to want you to risk your life and happiness by marrying her.
Why, she knows no more about housekeeping than I do about Greek—not a bit!"

George—"Perhaps not; but she can learn."

Mother—"After marriage is rather late for that, George."

George—"But you said yourself that you did not know a thing about housekeeping until after you were married."

Mother—"Very true, George, and your poor father died of dyspepsia twenty years ago."

A GOOD COUGH MIXTURE.

Simple Home-made Remedy That is Free From Opiates and Harmful Drugs.

An effective remedy, that will usually break up a cold in twenty-four hours, is easily made by mixing together in a large bottle two ounces of Glycerine, a half-ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure and eight ounces of pure Whisky.
This mixture will cure any cough that is curable, and is not expensive, as it makes enough to last the average family an entire year. Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure is prepared only in the laboratories of the Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

It sometimes happens that by the time a young man can afford to marry he doesn't want to.

No Reasonable Man expects to cure a neglected cold in a day. But time and Allen's Lung Balm will overcome the cold and stave off consumption.
Cough will cease and lungs be sound as a new dollar.

Ravages of Consumption
ALL HER RELATIVES HAD DIED OF CONSUMPTION
In the year 1890, 18 years ago, Mrs. C.
S. Genser, of Bellefleur, N.S., was in a sad condition. All her relatives had died of consumption, and there was every indication that she was going the same way.
At this point her husband suggested tory
Psychine. The doctor who attended said Psychine was worthless; but it effected a wonderful cure. Eighteen years after in a letter bearing date August 14, 1908, Ma.
Genser says, "I am better than I have been for years. My lungs have not troubled me since I took your treatment. My physician told me I could not take a better tonic than PSYCHINE, and I recommend it to all who are suffering from Lung Trouble and General Debility."

You can't equal Zam-Buk for sores of all kinds, whether recent or of long standing. That is the opinion of Mrs. Watson, of 110 Wickinson Ave., Toronto. She says: "About four years ago a sore spot appeared on the right side of my face, just about the angle of the jaw. This spot increased in size until it became about half an inch in diameter, and very troublesome. I went to a doctor from whom at different times during fifteen years I had received treatment, but the ointment I got did not have any good effect on the sore. I had it cauterized, tried poultices and all kinds of salves, but it was no good, and this continued for four years. A sample of Zam-Buk was one day left at our house, and I used it. Although the quantity was so small, it seemed to do me some good, so I purchased from Mr. Bauld, Druggist, Scollard and Yonge Streets, a supply of Zam-Buk. Each box did me more and more good, and to my delight, before I had been using Zam-Buk three weeks, I saw that it was going to heal the sore. In less than a month it was healed." It has now been healed for almost a year.

Try Zam-Buk for eczema, ulcers, skin eruptions, face spots, baby's rashes, inflamed places, piles, blood-poisoning and all skin injuries and diseases. 50c all drug-gists and stores, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

GOOD WORK.

The dear old veteran paused in his reminiscences, and his audience began to think he had left off. Vain hope!

"I recollect," he continued dreamingly, "that at the battle of Alma I had a very exciting time. Bullets were pelting upon us like rain, men fell right and left, cannon roared like thunder itself, and, worst of all, the enemy had managed to get within a hundred yards of our position. I was mad with excitement, and wasn't thinking of anything except just fighting for all I was worth. All of a sudden I turned, and found that my regiment had altered its position, and I was cut off—left to the mercy of the enemy, sir."

The veteran paused again; he always does at the most exciting part; he finds it amusing.

"Well, what did you do?" asked an impatient listener.

"Do," said the old fellow sleepily. "Well, I reckon I did a mile in three minutes."

SEVERE 'QUAKE AT 'FRISCO

The Heaviest Shock Since the Great Disaster of 1906

A despatch from San Francisco says: A sharp earthquake in some parts of the State, the severest shock since the big one of 1906, was experienced throughout the central part of California on Thursday night about 10.45 o'clock. The vibrations were long and undulatory, but slow. The duration was from one and a half to four seconds. The shake was felt as far south as San Luis Obispo, but did not extend far north of San Francisco. No damage was reported. The San Francisco people were generally aroused.

In the telegraph offices virtually every operator left his key. This caused a report to come from Portland that some of the San Francisco wires had been interrupted. In two San Francisco theatres where the last act was closing, scores of spectators jumped to their feet. In one house there was a decided movement from the galleries toward the exits, but it was promptly stopped by a policeman. The shock was principally severe on a line running north from Monterey through Watsonville, Santa Cruz and San Jose.

BRITISH NAVAL ESTIMATES

Five Large Armored Ships and Five Protected Cruisers.

A despatch from London says: The navy estimates, which have just been issued, amount to over £40,000,000, which is an increase of nearly £5,000,000. The new construction for the year will cost £13,279,830, against £8,885,194 during the past year. The new programme includes five larger armored ships, five protected cruisers, 20 torpedo-boat destroyers, and a number of submarines. On April 1 there will be under construction seven battleships, three armored cruisers, nine protected cruisers, 37 destroyers and nine submarines. The estimates further provide for an increase of 3,000 men in the personnel of the navy, and the completion during 1911 of two floating docks to accommodate the largest battleships. These will be stationed at Portsmouth and Medway.

Reginald McKenna, First Lord of the Admiralty, in an explanatory statement, announces the formation of a new naval mobilization department and a permanent navy war council, consisting of the First Sea Lord, as president, the directors of the naval intelligence and naval mobilization departments and other officials, to deal with all matters relating to preparation for war.

WATCH FOR HALLEY'S COMET

It Can Now Be Seen With an Ordinary Field Glass.

A despatch from Cambridge, Mass., says: Halley's comet may now be seen on nights when conditions are favorable with the aid of an ordinary field glass. Prof. E. C. Pickering, director of the Harvard Observatory, says: "The comet is at present in the twilight region. It is in the line of the sun, and its brightness is dimmed by the lustre of the great centre of the solar system. Besides, it has not yet attained its greatest size. When it makes a traverse of the sun it will have attained its maximum brilliancy. That will be on May 31. It will be visible all through April, but will be at its brightest in May."

"About that time, if clouds do not obscure it, it will be a dazzling sight. About a third of the heavens will be colored with a fiery gold. Its great flashes of light will play from one part of the heavens to another, and the scenes will be remembered for generations. Halley's comet has been noted for its brilliant displays."

"There is absolutely no danger to the earth from the comet. The earth is going to shoot through its tail like a cannon ball through our atmosphere. The idea that any harm will come from the poisonous gases is ridiculous. When the comet is nearest the earth we shall be 14,000,000 miles away."

DRANK WOOD ALCOHOL.

Two Indians Found Dead in Their Camp.

A despatch from St. Stephen, N. B., says: There is little doubt that the two Indians who were found dead in their camp at Lawrence Station on Wednesday were victims of wood alcohol. They left here Friday, taking with them bottles of so-called bay rum and cordial, which is largely wood alcohol. The empty bottles were found in camp.

WOMAN FATALLY BURNED.

Lighted Oil Lamp Upset Over Mrs. Benjamin Stock's Dress.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Through the upsetting of a lighted coal oil lamp over her dress, Mrs. Benjamin Stock of Riverdale avenue, Ottawa South, was so badly burned on Tuesday evening that she died shortly afterwards in the General Hospital. Endeavoring to extinguish the flames Mr. Stock was severely burned about the arms and hands. Both are aged people. They lived alone in a small house.

HOW THIN FOLKS CAN GET FLESHY

New Accidental Discovery Gives Startling Results—Puts Flesh on Thin People and Rounds Out Imperfect Figures.

Simple Prescription Given.

For women—and, men, too, for that matter—who can never appear stylish with anything they wear, because of abnormal thinness and angularity, this remarkable prescription is destined to solve the problem. As a beauty maker for the figure it is simply wonderful while it adds brightness to the eyes, and color to the cheeks and lips. It requires no particular dieting, but acts as an aid to nature by its peculiar action on the nerves and blood supply. The blood and nerves distribute over the body, all the nourishment or flesh building elements obtained from the food. The trouble with thin people has always been that they do not absorb or retain enough of the fleshy matter to make them gain in weight even to a normal extent; but this new discovery of blending certain harmless drugs is a revelation to science, and hundreds have gained from ten to forty pounds in a few weeks. There is no danger of becoming too fat. When you get the right weight then stop using.

The general health and strength is greatly improved in anyone from the age of sixteen to sixty. Women soon get plump, with well rounded arms and full bust, and men become straight, strong-looking and healthy. In a half pint bottle get three ounces of essence of pepsin and three ounces syrup of rhubarb. Then add one ounce compound essence cardiol, shake and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom). Take a teaspoonful before and after meals, and weigh before beginning.

TWO MEN AND HORSE LOST.

Double Drowning in the Murray River, P. E. I.

A despatch from Charlottetown, P. E. I., says: On Tuesday night L. R. McLaren of St. John, travel- ler for the Canadian Drug Com- pany, and Angus Martin of Murray River were drowned in the Murray River about half a mile from the village of the same name. Mc- Lauren, accompanied by Martin, driver of the team, left Murray Harbor North at 10 o'clock to drive on the ice to Murray River. That was the last seen or heard of them till 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, when someone noticed the horse's lead in a hole in the middle of the river. The empty sleigh, attached to the dead body of the horse, the men's caps and McLaren's valise were found on the spot, and later Martin's body was recovered by grappling, but McLaren's body is not found as yet.

Annual Statement of the British America Assurance Company.

Attention is directed to the annu- al financial statement of the Brit- ish America Assurance Company given in another place in to-day's issue. The profits on the year's trading amounting to $213,111.50 give evidence of the satisfactory condition of the company's affairs. The surplus to policyholders stands at $915,863.55. The premium in- come was $1,658,239.65 and out of this were paid fire losses of $839, 004.26, and other expenses of $660, $17.01. Interest and other receipts are given as $54,723.15 and this brings the profits up to the very satisfactory amount mentioned above. The British America Assur- ance Company was incorporated in 1855, and since the organization the fire losses paid have reached the enormous sum of $33,629,764.61.

G. T. P. ATLANTIC LINE.

Mr. C. M. Hays Intimates That There Will be None Just Yet.

A despatch from London says: Mr C. M. Hays, interviewed on Wednesday, said the Grand Trunk Pacific would wait till the line was almost completed "before we settle seriously on Atlantic boats." He said the line ought to go through Yellow Head Pass by the close of the year. Mr. Hays estimates that there will be 25 per cent. increase in immigration into Canada during 1916.

125 Preparations Under One Trade Mark.

A most striking example of the growth of the Trade Mark idea in Canada is be- ing announced for the first time to-day in the newspapers throughout the Dom- inion. It is the "NA-DRU-CO." line of about one hundred and twenty-five toilet and medicinal preparations, compounded by the National Drug & Chemical Company of Canada, Limited.

All these preparations bear the NA- DRU-CO. Trade Mark, the shield with the red cross, prominently displayed, and to make the line still more distinctive, each article is attractively dressed in a pleas- ing shade of red.

In their first advertisement, which ap- pears in this issue, The National Drug Company feature this Trade Mark. They point out some of the important advan- tages to every family in Canada of a thor- oughly reliable, easily recognized line, covering practically every household need in the way of toilet and medicinal ar- ticles, and guaranteed by a responsible firm.

The National Drug Company guarantee that every NA-DRU-CO. preparation is compounded by qualified chemists only, and from the purest ingredients. As a proof of the fact that the formulae are such as the best physicians would use, they make a unique offer which completely dispels the doubts which often creep into one's mind with regard to medicinal preparations.

Their "Money Back" offer helps still more to inspire confidence in the NA- DRU-CO. line, whose variety and com- pleteness is shown by the partial list given in their advertisement.

FOR THE PUBLIC

New Formula Cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and Hoarseness in Five Hours.

Much is being done in these days to stop the ravages of consumption, but probably nothing has been so effective as teaching the public how to break up a cold and cure coughs, bronchitis, tonsillitis, etc., with simple home-mixed medicine. A laxative cough syrup, free from whiskey is the prime need. A cough indicates inflammation and congestion and these in turn are due to an excess of waste and poisons in the system. A tonic laxative cough syrup rids the system of congestion, while relieving the painful coughing. Get the following and mix at home: One-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Shake the bottle and take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times daily. Give children less, according to age. Cut this out and save it for some friend.

C. P. R. GRAIN ROUTE.

New Line From Bathurst to Victoria Harbor.

A despatch from Montreal says: The report was revived on Friday that the C. P. R. will double-track the line from Smith's Falls to Bathurst, a distance of about fourteen miles, and will build the proposed new lines from Bathurst to Victoria Harbor. This would be the company's great grain route, and if this were done, the benefit to Smith's Falls would be incalculable. Color is lent to the rumor from the fact that an engineer with a large staff of assistants has been surveying in that locality for the past few weeks. Officials at the general offices say that nothing has been definitely determined as to the date at which this important work will be undertaken, but it is generally believed that it will be commenced during the coming summer.

Britain's Estimated Expenditure Shows $50,000,000 Increase.

A despatch from London says: The civil service estimates for 1910-11, which were given out on Thursday, with a total amount required of upwards of $320,000,000, show, like the navy and army estimates, a marked increase in the national expenditure. Should the Chancellor's budget provide for the usual consolidated fund charges, the grand aggregate expenditure which the Chancellor will have to meet will be upwards of $855,000,000, or nearly $50,000,000 in excess of last year. The civil service estimates include $46,100,000 for old age pensions.

NA-DRU-CO

When you see this Trade Mark on any Medicinal or Toilet Preparation you purchase, it is an assurance to you that every ingredient entering into that preparation is of the highest quality that money can procure. What is even more important, it is an assurance that these ingredients have been compounded, according to the best formulae known, by expert chemists of long experience, in the employ of one of the largest wholesale drug firms in the world, the National Drug and Chemical Company of Canada.

As you have probably noticed, "NA-DRU-CO" is made up of the first parts of the words "National Drug Company". It is pronounced "NA-DROO-KO", with the accent on the second syllable.

What the Laws Say

For the protection of the public the law of each Province in Canada states that only thoroughly qualified men are allowed to dispense prescriptions—these men being physicians or graduates of recognized Colleges of Pharmacy.

The logical conclusion is that as the laws are made by the representatives of the people, the people want protection, and should welcome the opportunity of being able to procure in any part of Canada the NA-DRU-CO line of medicinal and toilet preparations, compounded by expert chemists from the purest and best ingredients, and guaranteed by a firm of our standing.

When you see the NA-DRU-CO Trade Mark you have this opportunity and the guarantee for which you are looking.

Source of the NA-DRU-CO Formulae

The National Drug and Chemical Company of Canada, Limited, acquired the businesses and maintains the honorable traditions of 21 of the principal wholesale Drug Houses in Canada, from Halifax to Vancouver.

All of these firms had long and successful careers, some of them fifty to one hundred years, and during their existence they had accumulated a splendid lot of formulae which all became the property of the "National." After giving these formulae careful study and practical tests for several years we have now brought out, based on them, the NA-DRU-CO line of about 125 medicinal and toilet preparations. All the ingredients in these preparations are the best and purest that money can buy, and they are compounded by a staff of expert chemists, each of whom ranks high in his profession.

We have such implicit confidence in NA-DRU-CO Preparations that we offer them with

is the firm behind the NA-DRU-CO Trade Mark.

The National Drug and Chemical Company of Canada, Limited, is one of the largest wholesale drug firms in the world, having a Paid-up Capital of over Five Million Dollars. We have wholesale branches in the principal distributing centres in Canada so that you can at all times satisfy yourself that there is such a firm. We are the largest buyers of drugs and do the greater part of the wholesale drug business in Canada. We employ a staff of about nine hundred people and distribute in salaries, dividends and other expenses over One Million Dollars annually. We carry a stock distributed among our Branches of about Two Million Dollars, and in addition we own real estate and buildings which are to-day worth about Five Hundred Thousand Dollars, and other large assets.

The Second Guarantee of NA-DRU-CO quality is the NA-DRU-CO Trade Mark itself.

We know that the quality of the first NA-DRU-CO preparation you buy will practically decide whether you become a regular user of NA-DRU-CO articles or not—and for that trial you may select any one of the 125 preparations. So we must make each NA-DRU-CO article of the very highest quality or risk the reputation and sales of the whole line.

The Third Guarantee of NA-DRU-CO quality is the fact that NA-DRU-CO preparations are never, at any time or in any place, sold at cut prices.

NA-DRU-CO preparations are so much better than the preparations whose prices are cut that discerning people prefer to pay full prices for the NA-DRU-CO goods.

The Fourth Guarantee of NA-DRU-CO quality is short and very much to the point. If after trying any article bearing the NA-DRU-CO Trade Mark you are not entirely satisfied, return it to the druggist from whom you bought it and he will hand back your money.

Consult Your Physician

NA-DRU-CO medicinal preparations are not intended to take the place of your physician's prescriptions—far from it. When you are ill you need the physician's skilful diagnosis and treatment, and it would be folly to depend on your own diagnosis and any household remedy.

But in emergencies when you cannot get the doctor quickly, and in many other cases, a reliable household remedy is a real blessing.

To put the absolute reliability of NA-DRU-CO preparations beyond doubt or question, we are prepared to furnish to your physician or your druggist, on request, a list of the ingredients in any NA-DRU-CO preparation. Ask these men, who are men of standing in your community, and in whom you place implicit confidence, all about NA-DRU-CO remedies.

If your druggist has not the particular NA-DRU-CO preparation you ask for in stock, he can get it for you within two days from our nearest wholesale branch.

Patten Driven From Manchester
Cotton Exchange.

A despatch from London says: James A. Patten of Chicago was hustled off the Manchester Cotton Exchange on Friday, and had to take refuge in the offices of a friend until he could elude the excited crowd by escaping down an emergency fire exit. A cab was waiting, and Patten drove straight to the station and took a train to Liverpool. Such a scene has not been witnessed on the Manchester Exchange since John Bright was ejected for persisting in making a political address when asked to desist.

Deputation Urges Rates Should be the Same as for Men.

A despatch from Ottawa says: A deputation representing the National Council of Women waited upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier on Wednesday and asked that the rates charged for Government annuities for women be made the same as those for annuities for men. Insurance statistics indicate that women live longer than men, and hence the rates for annuities are slightly higher than those collected from men. The Premier promised to consider the ladies' request.

A despatch from St. Petersburg says: Emperor Nicholas had a narrow escape from an accident on Tuesday evening while driving to the dowager's palace to visit his mother. His carriage proceeded at a rapid pace from a side street into the Nevsky Prospect, when suddenly a swiftly moving street car appeared, the fender of which grazed the wheels of the Emperor's carriage.

JOY KILLED HER.

Woman Had Just Received $5,000 for Some Property.

A despatch from South Norwalk, Conn., says: "Killed by excessive joy" was the verdict in the case of Mrs. Mary E. Hendrick, who dropped dead here on Wednesday morning. Mrs. Hendrick had just received $5,000 in cash for some property from Zenus C. Bush, the purchaser. As the bills were counted out in her hand her face flushed and when the last yellowback dropped Mrs. Hendrick gave a sigh and sank to the floor. She never spoke or moved afterward. The coroner states that joy stopped her heart's action. Mrs. Hendrick, who was 50 years old, left a large and well known family.

F. H. OXLEY, P.C.A.

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

Your Directors herewith submit their Ninth Annual Report, with statement of assets and liabilities, and abstract of profit and loss account, for the year ended December 31, 1909.

The profits for the year amounted to $907,949.09, as compared with $724,701.53 for 1908. In view of the depressed condition of business during the greater part of the year, this result should be regarded with satisfaction by the shareholders. The amount at the credit of profit and loss account on January 1, 1903, was $1,219,221.07, against which the stock dividend of $1,000,000.00, declared in December, 1905, was charged.

The various amounts transferred to the Reserve Fund and Fire Insurance Fund, and written off for improvements and betterments, are shown by the accounts.

A sum of $184,453.54 for Premium and Commission on redemption of old and issue of new bonds has been paid out of the profits of the year.

The balance carried forward to the credit of profit and loss account is $336,807.38.

The sum of $562,653.17 has been expended during the year on capital account, in the development of the submarine iron ores at Wabana, and for improvements, plant, etc., elsewhere.

The volume of business transacted by the Company during the year shows a substantial increase, and is in excess of any previous year, and it is expected that there will be a still further increase in 1910.

The development of our submarine iron ore areas at Wabana was continued, the main slope being extended through these areas a further distance of 1,470 feet. The slope is now about 1,650 feet into our own areas from the southern boundary. The development work carried on has fully confirmed the estimates previously made as to the vast quantity of ore contained in, and the great value of, these areas. The plant for the operation of these submarine mines is now being installed.

Considerable extensions and improvements have been made to the mills at New Glasgow, and further extensions and improvements will be made in 1910, with a view to increasing the output of finished steel.

The reorganization of the finances of the Company, authorized by the shareholders, has been carried out. A new issue of $6,000,000 5 per cent. First Mortgage Bonds, and an issue of $1,000,000 6 per cent. Debtenture Stocks, were made; $2,500,000 of the Bonds and $1,000,000 of the Debtenture Stock were sold in Canada, and the two former issues of 6 per cent. Bonds were paid off and cancelled. The balance of $2,500,000 of the Bonds remains in the Treasury. No portion of the premium on the retirement of the old bonds nor the commission on the new issue has been charged to Property Account.

The regular dividend of 2 per cent. quarterly has been paid on the preferred shares, and on Jan. 15th a quarterly dividend of 1 per cent. was paid on the ordinary shares, and the Directors have declared further dividends of 1 per cent. of the ordinary shares, and 2 per cent. on the preferred shares, payable on April 15th to shareholders of record on March 31st, 1910.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ROBERT E. HARRIS, President.

it may be said that Mr. Monk is repudiated by leading and influential Conservatives in Quebec, who have appeared at Ottawa and registered their objections to his policy.

Mr. Schaffner of Manitoba, said he was in favor of one navy, an Imperial navy, and Canada should contribute to it but have no control over it.

Mr. Cowan, of Vancouver, did nothing but vilify the prime minister. He had no policy to announce, but would support the amendment of Mr. Borden.

Mr. Broder, of Ontario, thought the best thing to do would be to send a sum of money to help out now, and let it end there. He expressed the opinion that the Canadian people did not want a Canadian navy.

Col. Sam Hughes, Ontario, advocated doing big things, entering into obligations to provide half a dozen Dreadnoughts would meet with his approval.

Dr. Chisholm, Ontario, would give England the interest, per annum in sufficient amount to enable the Old Country to spend $50,000,000 on Dreadnoughts, and then there would be enough of them to lend to Canada in case of emergency.

Dr. Robbie, Manitoba, believed that Canada should give two Dreadnoughts at once, or the equivalent in money, and then submit the question of a Canadian navy to the people.

Dr. Edwards, of Ontario, cast a reflection upon the loyalty of the French Canadians, particularly upon that of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He enunciated no policy but for his slur on the French Canadians he was severely called down by members on his own side of the House.

Mr. Barnard, Victoria, B. C., advocated a fleet unit on the Pacific Coast, but he said he was in favor of a Canadian navy, which is the Government policy.

Dr. Daniel, New Brunswick, wanted to provide the money for two Dreadnoughts.

Mr. Doherty, Montreal, thought the time for Canada to establish a navy was when she had a voice in Imperial foreign affairs. In the meantime he advocated delay, which showed that he did not believe there was any present emergency.

Mr. Magrath, Alberta, would make a contribution of $10,000,000 to Great over classified the work. Why the man did not promptly discharge the engineers and employ new ones, is not stated, but this reasonable solution of the difficulty would have occurred to most men who had the interests of the country at heart.

Tories Hinder Construction.

In the meantime the contractors are crippled for funds, and the Conservatives will be correspondingly jubilant because it will mean more delay, and they will not hesitate to charge the delay up to the Government, which has had nothing whatever to do with it.

Delay Investigation.

The investigation of the Lumsden charges was done at the instance of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and ever since the committee convened, the Conservatives have done nothing but delay the investigation upon first one and then another foolish pretext. It is well for the people to know this.

Passing of Foster.

The libel suit brought by Mr. Foster against Dr. Macdonald of the Globe has resulted in a verdict for the latter with costs. The main charge brought against Mr. Foster by Dr. Macdonald was in these words as quoted by Judge Magee at the trial.

The Charge Against Him.

"That he asked for a private rake-off in a deal with trust funds; that he directed the suspicious way in which that personal rake-off should be paid; that he got that rake-off; and that as the high-salaried managing director of the Union Trust Company, handling funds belonging to the I. O. F. fraternal society, he had no right or title to that money. That is my statement, made in his own constituency, based upon sworn evidence and proved by his own letters, produced, sworn to, and filed as exhibits in the case. That statement stands unretracted, unmodified, and by Mr. Foster undenied."

Dr. Macdonald stated that he relied upon the evidence and report of the Royal Insurance Commission, and the same was admitted as evidence at the trial.

Jury Says Guilty.

After an exhaustive inquiry, during which Mr. Foster entered the box and gave his testimony, the jury came to the unanimous conclusion to give a verdict against him:

The Toronto News, commenting editorially on the case concludes with these words:

What Toronto News Says.

"It is useless, however, to shut one's eyes to the fact that his position is seriously prejudiced and his influence greatly impaired by the insurance investigation and the legal action which has just closed with a judgment substantially in favor of his assailant."

The Toronto Telegram, commenting on the case says, among other things:

What Toronto Telegram Says.

"Congratulations are offered by the Globe to the jurors who decided the question at issue in the libel action of Foster v. Macdonald. These congratulations are deserved. It was easy for the jurors whose partisan sympathies are against Mr. Foster to reach a verdict that closes the public career of a political opponent in the 'blackness of great darkness.' The jurors were called upon to vindicate the liberty of the press, and to teach public men that if they would keep the columns of a hostile press free from criticism they must keep their own conduct free from material for criticism."

In this connection one is reminded of the editorial criticism on Mr. Foster by the Toronto News on June 15, 1907, after the findings of the Insurance Commission were made public. The two following quotations will ill-

Mr. Doherty, Montreal, thought the time for Canada to establish a navy was when she had a voice in Imperial foreign affairs. In the meantime he advocated delay, which showed that he did not believe there was any present emergency.

Mr. Magrath, Alberta, would make a contribution of $10,000,000 to Great Britain, spread over a few years (what ever that means), and for this he would take vessels in exchange at some future time.

Mr. Sharpe, Ontario, wanted the Canadian navy as outlined by the Government, increased to the extent of two Dreadnoughts, and this should be done without any delay.

Mr. Armstrong, Ontario, would give two Dreadnoughts at once to Great Britain, and submit the question of establishment of a Canadian navy to the people.

Mr. Lewis, Ontario, announced no views on the navy policy of the Government, but intimated that he would support Mr. Borden's amendment although he might not be in favor of it.

These Are Only Samples.

These are some of the views expressed by the Opposition, no two alike, and not one of them with a true Canadian ring to it. On the other hand the Liberal party stands solidly for Canadian navy, built in Canada, with Canadian money by Canadian working men. Take your choice.

Resented the Insult.

Last week there appeared in Ottawa a very influential delegation of Conservatives from Quebec province, headed by Mr. Bergeron and Mr. T. Chase Casgrain, both of ex-members, protesting against the insults offered in the House to the French Canadians of Quebec by Dr. Edwards, Conservative member of Frontenac. This illustrates the lengths to which Tories will go in the House in opposing anything that is suggested by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. However, in this case Nemesis has overtaken the members who was so ignorant of Canadian history as not to know that the French Canadians have always been, and are now among the most loyal subjects of His Majesty the King.

Contractors Are Delayed.

Contractors working on the National Transcontinental Railway complain that in consequence of the Lumsden charges, they are unable to secure payments for work done, and the result is that serious delay in the construction is likely to ensue.

By and by the Government will be blamed for loss of time in the building of this road, and yet the whole delay was caused by Mr. Lumsden who resigned because he said he had lost confidence in a part of his staff. He did not know those in whom he had lost confidence, but said that they had keep their own conduct free from material for criticism."

In this connection one is reminded of the editorial criticism on Mr. Foster by the Toronto News on June, 15, 1907, after the findings of the Insurance Commission were made public. The two following quotations will illustrate how that paper regarded his actions at the time.

What News Formerly Said.

"It was Mr. George E. Foster who was unable to see any conflict of duty in his dual position as manager of this company and partner in a western land company which used Union Trust money to carry on its speculative and hazardous business."

Then again in the same article the News continues:

"And it is a man of such remarkable obliquity of moral vision and such a superb equality of 'nerve' who asks for election as a condemnation of the mishandling of trust funds by the Ottawa administration."

The Montreal Star alluding to the probability of Mr. Foster appearing on the same platform as Mr. Borden in Toronto says on Sept. 23, 1908:

What Montreal Star Said.

"But it is a surely to Mr. Borden's credit—if this divorce be of his making—that he declines to preach his policy of purity from a platform upon which sits, ready to speak after him, the man who as manager of a trust company poured the funds in his keeping, the trust funds of the widows and orphans, into a speculation for his own personal profit."

Since these opinions were expressed Mr. Foster has submitted himself to the judgment of his peers with the adverse result, stated above.

Vindicated or Not?

The Toronto Mail and Empire publishes an editorial headed "Vindicated by his peers," and in the same paper it states that Mr. Foster will enter an appeal. If he has been vindicated, why appeal the case?

The incident, as relating to Mr. Foster, is more significant than it would be were any other man upon his side of the House involved. It is Mr. Foster who continually attacks the administration alleging, not that any members of it participate in graft and rake-off, but that they permit it.

ation at the government for showing the middle man to make a profit.

It is Mr. Foster who employs his extensive vocabulary in charging members of the government with carelessness and negligence in administering the trust funds of the people.

It is Mr. Foster who condemns the private rake-off and illegal commission on the side, and it is Mr. Foster who has failed to clear his own skirts of a similar charge made by Dr. Macdonald.

That Mr. Foster's usefulness as a public man has gone is admitted even by those who gave him their support until the verdict was rendered.

Cannot Influence the Public.

No man should act in the dual capacity of leading director of a trust company, which is risking the money, and a member of a speculating land syndicate, which is borrowing that money—there being a startling similarity between the syndicate and the directorate. For a man to occupy such a position demonstrates that he holds a low standard of what is required of a public man and a man in a position of trust. If he condemns such actions in others, his own conduct becomes even more reprehensible.

Careless of Trust Funds.

Any man who believes that trust money may be transformed from one trust, where it is comparatively safe, and places it in another place where it becomes available for speculative investment, and does so employ it, is unfitted to hold high public positions of trust.

Must Blame Himself.

Mr. Foster has only himself to blame for the dilemma in which he now finds himself. No more can he make accusations of graft, rake off and illegal commissions, words which fell so glibly from his tongue heretofore. No more can he pose as a conscientious critic of governmental wrongdoing. He has forfeited any right he may once have had to censure others. Mr. Foster has ceased to be a political force.

The knowledge gained of Mr. Foster's own methods, from the publication of the Insurance report, and evidence upon which it was based, did much to neutralize the effect of his outbursts of condemnation against the government. His attacks were innocuous, because people judged him by the standard set by himself, and by that standard he fell short of what Canada expects in her public men.

Should Resign His Seat.

Now the verdict which he himself has invited is against him; he could with propriety resign his seat and appeal to the electors of North Toronto, and should he receive their endorsement it would do much to offset the effect of what must in the meantime operate as a condemnation of his actions while holding a prominent position of trust.

Word was received Wednesday that John Fuller was taken very suddenly ill with appendicitis and taken to Montreal hospital.

C. A. Jones, of Toronto, spent Tuesday with his sister.

OTTAWA NEWS.

The week just passed has seen the making of political history which will have far-reaching consequences in the political life of Canada.

Three Important Incidents.

First, the continuation of the naval debate, and the various policies enunciated by Opposition speakers.

Second, the fact that the contractors on the National Transcontinental Railway cannot get their pay in consequence of what is known as the Lumsden charges and the pernicious delay in prosecuting this important public work.

Third, the verdict given in Toronto in the Foster-Macdonald libel suit, which resulted in favor of Dr. Macdonald, Editor of the Globe, with costs.

Liberals Stand Firm.

Take first the naval debate on the second reading of the bill. Every man on the Liberal side, stands for a Canadian navy, built in Canada with Canadian money by Canadian working men. Upon the Conservative side, every man appears to have a policy of his own. Let us enumerate some of them for the purpose of illustrating the muddle in the Conservative ranks.

Various Tory Policies.

First, comes the leader of the party, Mr. Borden, who advocates giving $25,000,000 of money to Great Britain to do with as she sees fit, without Canada having anything to say in the matter. This is in plain words "Taxation without representation."

Then comes Mr. Monk, the alleged leader of the Conservative party in Quebec who advocates no navy, no contribution of either money, vessels or anything else, in this connection

PIE FOR BREAKFAST.

Once Considered as Much a Virtue as Early Rising.

I am aware that, according to the latest edition of the revised statutes, eating pie at breakfast is now a penitentiary offense, punishable by hard labor on the farm for a period not exceeding eighty-five years. But it once shared with early rising the reputawith a balky team—a morning so long that it becomes a young eternity about 10:30 o'clock; when the front of the body below the waist begins again to chafe and grind on the backbone in spite of all the fats and sweeps that can be put in between at breakfast to act as fender.—Everybody's Magazine.

FIRST CHILDREN'S BOOKS.

Sheets of Horn Protected the Pages From Soiled Fingers.

The earliest English book for children was "The Babes' Book, or a Lyttl Report of How Young People Should Behave." The horn books existed in Elizabeth's reign. The writing was covered with a sheet of horn in order to protect the lettering from contact with dirty fingers.

The chap book contained most of the familiar nursery rhymes and stories which have appertained to nursery lore for generations. They exhibit very crude woodcuts, often daubed with inappropriate color, and the commonest paper as a rule was used. They were hawked about by the chapman or peddler and cost only a few pence apiece.

They served to perpetuate such familiar ditties as "Sing a Song of Sixpence," which dates from the sixteenth century; "Three Blind Mice," in use, with music, in 1699; "The Frog and the Mouse," in existence in 1580, and "Girls and Boys Come Out to Play," which was sung by the villagers in the time of Charles II. "Little Jack Horner," we know, is older than the seventeenth century, and last, but not least, "Lucy Locket," the tune from which originated "Yankee Doodle."

A few of what were called "battledoor books" have been handed down to us. They were three leaved cards which were folded up into oblong pocket shaped volumes. These taught reading and numerals in the dame schools in town and country. The little gilt books, as they were called, adorned on the outside with gilt Dutch paper colored flowers, were much prized gift books of that period. Children were employed coloring such picture books by hand, one child doing all the red in the series of illustrations, another all the blue, and so on. Of course they gained precision by repetition, but we very often find the tints overlapping as if carried out by an inexperienced hand.—London Queen.

Presenting Arms to a Cat.

About the middle of the last century a very high English official died in a fortress at a place that is one of the centers of Brahmanic orthodoxy, and at the moment when the news of his death reached the sepoy guard at the main gate a black cat rushed out of it. The guard presented arms to the cat as a salute to the flying spirit of the powerful Englishman, and the coincidence took so firm a hold of the locality that up to a few years ago neither exhortation or orders could prevent a Hindoo sentry at that gate from presenting arms to any cat that passed out at night.—Bombay Times.

Her Proof.

"Why," asked the judge, "do you think your husband is dead? You say you haven't heard from him for more than a year. Do you consider that reasonable proof that he has passed out of existence?"

"Yes, your honor. If he was still alive he'd be asking me to send him money."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Her Mild Complaint.

Patient Parent—Georgie, what do you think I found in my bed last night? Georgie—What was it, mamma? Patient Parent—A railroad train

Do farmers eat the proper sort of food?

The farmer of today buys a much larger proportion of the food that goes on the table than he did ten years ago. It's a good thing that this is so because he has a great variety to select from.

He should, however, use great care in selecting for the best results in health and strength.

The widespread tendency in the city to increase the amount of Quaker Oats eaten is due very largely to the recent demonstrations by scientific men that the Quaker Oats fed man is the man with greatest physical endurance and greatest mental vigor.

Farmers should give this subject careful thought and should increase the quantity of Quaker Oats eaten by themselves, their children and the farm hands. 57

An Italian Superstition.

There is an Italian superstition that whenever a king belonging to the house of Savoy dies a huge eagle is to be seen crossing the Alps over the valley of Aosta in the direction of Savoy, and the conviction prevails among the inhabitants of Aosta that this eagle guides the soul of the dead sovereign to join those of his ancestors in Savoy. When King Charles Albert died at Lisbon, King Victor Emmanuel died at Rome and King Humbert was assassinated at Monza in 1900 the eagle was seen winging its way across the Alps. All other eagles crossing the Alps don't seem to count for much.

Ancient Ropes.

Ropes made of various kinds of fiber and leather are of very ancient date. Ropes of palm have been found in Egypt in the tombs of Beni-Hassan (about 3000 B. C.), and on the walls of these tombs is also shown the process of preparing hemp. In a tomb at Thebes of the time of Thothmes III. (about 1600 B. C.) is a group representing the process of twisting thongs of leather and the method of cutting leather into thongs.

We're All Alike.

BOUND FOR THE FRONT.

An Incident Showing the Military Courage of the Montenegrin.

In military courage the Montenegrin probably stands at the head of European races. The best wish for a baby boy is, "May you not die in your bed," and to face death is to man or boy only a joyous game. Says W. J. Stillman in his "Autobiography."

I have seen a man under a heavy Turkish fire deliberately leave the trenches and climb the breastwork, only to expose himself from sheer bravado.

While lying at headquarters at Oreabuk, awaiting the opening of the campaign in 1877, I was walking one day with the prince when a boy of sixteen or eighteen approached us, cap in hand.

"Now," said the prince, "I'll show you an interesting thing. This boy is the last of a good family. His father and brothers were all killed in the last battle, and I ordered him to go home and stay with his mother and sisters that the family might not become extinct."

The boy drew near and stopped before us, his head down, his cap in hand.

"What do you want?" asked the prince.

"I want to go back to my battalion."

"But," said the prince, "you are the last of your line, and I cannot allow a good family to be lost. You must go home and take care of your mother."

The boy began to cry bitterly.

"Will you go home quietly and stay there," said the prince, "or will you take a flogging and be allowed to fight?"

The boy thought for a moment. A flogging, he knew well, is the deepest disgrace that can befall a Montenegrin.

"Well," he broke out, "since it isn't for stealing, I'll be flogged."

"No," said the prince, "you must go home."

Then the boy broke down utterly.

"But," he cried, "I want to avenge my father and brothers!"

He went away still crying, and the prince said, "In spite of all this he will be in the next battle."

LIGHT AND THE EYES

We Do Not Always See Things as They Really Are.

COLORS WE CANNOT DISCERN

Normal Vision Is Not Able to Penetrate to the Regions Beyond the Violet—Some Results That Have Been Attained With the Camera.

Those of us who are fortunate enough to possess normal eyes are apt to feel instinctively that we see things as they are. This is a mistake. The appearance of the world at large is merely the result of the circumstance that the human eye perceives only a comparatively small part of the total radiation which comes from the sun or is given out by a lamp.

To make this a little clearer we may consider one of the oldest experiments in optics, the passage of a ray of light through a prism.

When a beam of sunlight passes through a prism of glass such as is often found on old fashioned chandeliers the rays are spread out, forming a spectrum, which we see as a rainbow colored band upon the wall. The colors of the spectrum merge into one another by insensible gradations, though the older physicists were in the habit of recognizing seven—red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo and violet.

These colors which the eye perceives are by no means the only ones present in the spectrum. If we perform the experiment in a dark room and place a photographic plate in such a position as to receive the image of the spectrum we find that it extends to a considerable distance beyond the violet.

In other words, there is a region beyond the violet which the eye cannot see, but which the sensitive plate is able to photograph. This region is termed the ultra violet, and the light from virtually all sources contains a greater or less amount of this ultra violet light.

The only difference between this ultra violet light and ordinary visible light is in the length of the wave, which is, in fact, the only difference between the different colors of the visible spectrum. If, instead of using a glass prism for forming our spectrum, we use one cut from a quartz crystal we find that the ultra violet spectrum is very much longer, which shows us that the shortest waves of light are not transmitted even by the clearest glass.

If your eyes were sensitive to this region of the spectrum instead of to the other the appearance of things would appear black, our windows would be as opaque as sheets of iron, and polished silver would resemble anthracite coal. In other words, things appear as they do merely from the circumstance that in the process of evolution our eyes have developed a sensibility to a certain region of the total spectrum of the light which comes to us from the sun.

If we have used an ordinary photographic plate in our experiment we shall find that it has received no impression from the red and yellow parts of the spectrum and very little from the green. The plate therefore suffers from the same defect as our eye. It is sensitive only to a limited region. Recently, however, means have been found of rendering plates sensitive to the entire visible spectrum and to a certain extent to the infra red or the extension beyond the red analogous to

Listless, Backward Children

Made Bright and Active by Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills

No Needs Wise Care —Not Scolding.

Many a growing boy or girl is set down as constitutionally slow, stupid or lazy when it is really a question of inactive bowels, lazy liver or sluggish kidneys.

The growing child, with a hearty appetite, certainly cannot long remain healthy and bright if the sewers of the body, the bowels and the kidneys, are choked up with impurities that should be thrown off promptly.

The muddy complexion, dragging limbs and dislike for mental or physical effort show plainly that the child needs Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills to stir up the liver and kidneys and regulate the bowels. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills do this most effectively, cleansing the whole system, purifying the blood, aiding the digestion and giving plenty of life and activity. As upon the education obtained may depend the success in life of your boy or girl—see to it that the general health of the child is such that study is pleasure and not a hardship.

With a photographic plate rendered sensitive to the entire spectrum we could obtain an idea of how things would appear if our eyes were sensitive to regions other than the one adopted by nature by excluding from the lens of the camera all rays other than the ones with which we wish to operate. This is done to a limited extent every day by all photographers who employ color screens in their work, and it is well known that increased contrast can often be obtained in this way.

If, for example, we attempt to photograph white clouds against a blue sky without the use of such a screen we get scarcely any trace of the clouds at all, whereas if we place a yellow glass in front of the lens the clouds come out snow white on a very dark background.

We can see this same effect by viewing the clouds first through a piece of deep blue glass, which is what the photographic plate "sees," and then through the yellow plate.

At my laboratory at East Hampton, N. Y., I have pushed this principle to the extreme and have obtained photographs both by the infra red and the ultra violet invisible rays.—Robert William Wood in Century.

A Mechanical Answer.

The well-to-do patron of the place had been attentive to the cashier for some time, and now, business being slack for a few moments, he deemed the time propitious to speak.

ON THE WITNESS STAND.

The Right of a Witness to Qualify His Answers.

Like Stevenson's child, as a rule, the witness should speak only when he is spoken to. He should not volunteer anything except that when he is asked a question which with apparent innocence could really be answered "Yes" or "No" he has a right to qualify a plain "Yes" or "No." This of course happens most often in the case of experts. The "Yes, but I will explain," and "No, but I will explain," of one of

With a sigh he left.—Chicago Post.

Self-laudation abounds among the unpolished, but nothing can stamp a man more sharply as ill-bred.—Pittsburgh Courier.

Too Realistic.

During a performance of "Captain Lapalisse" at a Valencia theater some years ago an incident occurred which for lifelike effect left nothing to be desired. During the said play some of the actors mingle with the spectators in order to co-operate from the body of the house. No sooner had Miralles, the actor, taken his seat in the stalls than a daring pickpocket robbed him of his gold watch. Miralles seized the man by his coat collar and called out in a deep bass voice:

"Police! Help! Thieves!"

The audience, taking this little episode to be part of the performance, roared with laughter. Even the policemen joined in without stirring hand or foot.

"This is no farce!" cried the actor in tones of despair. "The fellow has got my watch!"

The voice sounded so natural that the audience broke into loud applause at "such excellent fooling." Meanwhile the thief managed to break away from his captor and escaped.

A Judicial Expert.

The native with a stogie met the native with a pipe.

"Howdy, Zeb?" quoth the stogie native. "Hear 'bout th' fuss down to th' courthouse?"

"None," drawled the man with the pipe. "What was it about?"

"Why, Jim Simpson has been suin' Abner Hawley for alienatin' th' affections of his wife, an' Judge Musgrove told th' jury to bring in a verdict of 6 cents damages, 'cause he thought that was all the damage was worth to Jim. An' Jim's wife got mad an' threw a chair at th' judge, an' he had her arrested an' put in th' cooler."

"But didn't th' judge go a little too far when he fixed her value so low?"

"Not at all, not at all! You see, he was her first husband."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Singer and Orator.

"If I had my way," Dr. Macnamara once confessed to an interviewer, "I should be singing in 'Carmen' instead of making speeches from the treasury bench, but unfortunately the British public thinks a great deal more of a man who can make a bad speech than a man who can sing a good song."—Westminster Gazette.

To Reform Him.

Minister—You say you are going to marry a man to reform him. That is noble. May I ask who it is? Miss Beauti—It's young Mr. Bondclipper. Minister—Indeed! I did not know he had any bad habits. Miss Beauti—Yes; his friends say that he is becoming quite miserly.

Anticipation.

"Doesn't it make you the least bit envious to see what elegant furniture Mrs. Eyefly is putting into her house next door?"

"Not a bit. My husband says it will be sold by the sheriff within six months—and I'll be there to buy it!"—Chicago Tribune.

a question which with apparent innocence could really be answered "Yes" or "No" he has a right to qualify a plain "Yes" or "No." This of course happens most often in the case of experts. The "Yes, but I will explain," and "No, but I will explain," of one of the distinguished expert witnesses for the commonwealth in the case of commonwealth versus Quay, which was tried before Judge Biddle in the court of quarter sessions of Philadelphia county several years ago still linger in the writer's memory.

It is a mistaken notion that a witness is bound to answer "Yes" or "No." It is surprising that such should have ever been the received theory, but then the hunting down of witches and the expounding of the doctrine of witchcraft were regarded as proper judicial functions only a century or two ago. The theory as to categorical reply was completely exploded by the gentleman who propounded the question, "When are you going to stop beating your wife?" and demanded a categorical answer. If the lawyer attempts to tell you that you must answer "Yes" or "No" you have the right to say that the question is one which is not susceptible of a categorical answer. This should floor counsel for the moment.

Mannerly behavior on the part of witnesses includes keeping one's temper under almost all provocations. Cross examination for the purpose of testing your memory is not intended to be and should not be regarded as insulting. It should therefore not be resented. If the cross examination transcends all bounds and your patience is exhausted a sharp retort will not necessarily injure your testimony with the jury. The jury sympathizes with the witness more than with the lawyer, and, while mere smartness for the sake of being smart or because of a too expansive personality is to be deplored, you will be sure of a sympathetic audience if you are in the right and counsel in the wrong.

Pain in Heart

"For two years I had pain in my heart, back and left side. Could not draw a deep breath or lie on left side, and any little exertion would cause palpitation. Under advice I took Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and Nervine. I took about thirteen bottles, am in better health than I ever was, and have gained 14 pounds."

MRS. LILLIE THOMAS, Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

For many years Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy has been very successful in the treatment of heart troubles, because of its tonic effect upon the heart nerves and muscles. Even in severe cases of long standing it has frequently prolonged life for many years after doctors had given up all hope, as proven by thousands of letters we have received from grateful people.

Frost Gate Frames Are Welded—Not Coupled

Frost Gates are made of Steel Tubing. In every other Gate this Tubing is connected by threaded joints. These threads cut half-way into the Tube.

This deep thread-cutting deprives it of one-half of its proper strength. And when subjected to strain, away go those threaded joints.

But the Frost Gate has no couplings. It is welded together. The severest strain will not separate this Welding. Because the joints, the weakest parts of other Gates, are the strongest parts of the Frost.

All Frost Gates have a Galvanized finish—not an imitation paint.

The Frame, when bent or shaped, is scoured clean of grease and scale.

The Zinc Galvanizing will now adhere permanently to this thoroughly cleaned Gate Frame. And the Zinc not only spreads over the surface but goes into it, becoming a part of the Pipe itself.

Every inch—hinges, latches, and all—are put through this same Galvanizing process. The Frost Gate will now fight off rust or many, many years, and last longer than any other Gate we know of.

The finish of the Frost Gate is beautiful. It is smooth and makes the Frost ornamental as well as useful.

When ordering, don't merely ask for a metal Gate. Say you want a Frost Galvanized Gate.

The Wire used in the Frost Gate is No. 4. This Wire is made and Galvanized by ourselves. It is the strongest Wire of its size in use.

HER PHYSICIAN ADVISED

Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Columbus, Ohio.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during change of life. My doctor told me it was good, and since taking it I feel so much better that I can do all my work again. I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fine remedy for all woman's troubles, and I never forget to tell my friends what it has done for me."
—Mrs. E. HANSON, 304 East Long St., Columbus, Ohio.

Another Woman Helped.
Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored my health and strength, and proved worth mountains of gold to me. For the sake of other suffering women I am willing you should publish my letter."—Mrs. CHARLES BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

THE FARMER'S INTEREST IN PURE SEED.

From now to the end of seeding the trade in seed will be active, and it behooves every farmer to take stock of what he has on hand to sow or what he has to buy.

In many places dealers say that the seed which is now coming in quite freely from the farmers is more polluted with noxious weed seeds than it has been for several seasons. As a consequence there is heavy loss in cleaning, and high class No. 1 seed will be expensive. In view of these conditions it is likely that there will be a smaller proportion than usual of No. 1 seed placed on the market, and considerable of the second rate seed will probably be pretty close to the prohibitive line. It is therefore especially important this year that farmers who have to buy seed should use every precaution to see that they do not get a supply of weed seeds. If you want high class pure seed, and are not willing to pay the price, place your order early for guaranteed No. 1 seed, and to see that the seed delivered is up to standard, send a sample to the Seed Laboratory, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and you will be sent a report giving the grading and the kinds and number of weed seeds present, if any. The standard for No. 1 seed is not more than one noxious weed seed per 1,500 of good seed, while in the second quality five weed seeds per 1,000 are allowed, or 7½ times as many. Farmers who have seed for sale, or even if they have only enough for their own use, should also have it tested for purity.

SEEKING EX-MEMBERS QUEEN'S OWN RIFLES

Several thousands of former members of the Queen's Own Rifles will assemble from all parts of the continent at Toronto next June, for a reunion in celebration of the Semi-Centennial of the regiment. The festivities will commence Saturday, June 18th, with a reception at Government House, his Honor, the Lieutenant-Governor, like many other notables, being an ex-member of the crack regiment. On Sunday a monster Church Parade of ex-members and the present members will be a unique affair. During the week, grand historical pageants on a scale only equalled at the Quebec Tercentenary, will be given by several thousand performers on the Rosedale Athletic Grounds. In addition, there will be numerous social meetings of old comrades.

In nearly every town and city in the Dominion, and in many in the United States and elsewhere, are men who have served in the Queen's Own, and the Semi-Centennial Committee is desirous of getting personally in touch with as many of them as possible. To that end, it will greatly facilitate matters if the ex-members who see this will at once communicate with the permanent Secretary, Mr. G. I. Riddell, 36 King Street East, Toronto, and prevail upon all the other ex-members they know to do the same. Mr. Riddell will promptly send them particulars.

CHRONIC CATARRH RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA.

MRS. F. CARR.

MRS. F. CARR, Vineland, Ont., Can., writes:

"For several years I was afflicted with catarrh, which made life a burden. The coughing and hacking which accompanied the disease was terrible.

"The complaint finally extended to the stomach and I was in a wretched condition.

"I tried different remedies and the best professional treatment all in vain.

"Finally, as a last resort, I tried Peruna upon the recommendation of my sister in Hamilton.

"I could see steady improvement and after using four bottles of that precious medicine I was feeling well again, my old trouble being completely a thing of the past.

"To-day I would not take one thousand dollars for what this grand medicine has done for me."

Peruna is a universally recognized catarrh remedy. It will relieve catarrh in its most obstinate form.

The Retort Courteous.

"Group Meeting" John Allen was a famous Methodist preacher and revivalist of the old days down in Maine, and like most successful pulpit orators, his sense of humor was equal to his gift of speech.

It is recalled by the Boston Journal that on one occasion the old gentleman's wife was getting into a carriage, and he neglected to assist her.

"You are not as gallant, John, as when you were a boy!" she exclaimed in gentle rebuke.

"No," was his ready response, "and you are not as buoyant as when you were a girl!"

asked girls and young women especially—find their faces disfigured by pimples, dark spots, eruptions, etc. The skin needs attention—needs renovating through during the winter.

Just think what it has gone through! You have been out in rain and sleet and snow. You have been at one moment perspiring from skating, or some other exertion. Then you have stood to "cool off." You have spent hours of the day indoors at a temperature equal to summer heat. Then you have covered up your skin—except your face—and gone out into a temperature away below zero! No wonder that with all these changes, the skin of the face and neck shows signs of needing attention.

Don't forget that the skin has to do work just as any other organ of the body, and if you overwork it, it gives out. Zam-Buk is the remedy. Sineat lightly over the spots, the eruptions, the scaly patches, at night, and notice how quickly your appearance improves. As the rich, refined, herbal essences sink deep into the tissue, the hard, scurf-like patches are removed. Better color results. The cells of the skin become transparent. The blood beneath is able to impart its proper coloring to the tissue, and the delicate bloom of health replaces the sallowness and pallor of disease.

Zam-Buk is also of great use for skin injuries and diseases. Eczema, ulcers, chaps, ringworm, acne, yield to its use. For cuts, burns, bruises, children's rashes, etc., it is unequalled. And it is a sure cure for piles. All druggists and stores at 50c box, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful substitutes and imitations.

THE MARCH ROD AND GUN.

Snow Trails, a story of a professional man spending some weeks trapping with an Indian in the Canadian backwoods, is the leading feature of the March issue of Rod and Gun in Canada published by W. J. Taylor, Woodstock Ont., and one that no sportsman should miss. Stories galore have been written of experiences in the backwoods in summer and fall, but not too many genuine instances of personal experiences by outsiders, in the woods in winter have been given to the world. Mr. Auer's narrative is full of interest and demonstrates the health and pleasure to be obtained from a visit to the winter woods. To penetrate too far is, as the author says, only for the strong, but there are few cases which would not be benefited from following the author's advice and example. The time may come when winter visitors will rank second in numbers to those enjoying summer outings. The difficulties of prospecting trips in North-eastern British Columbia are well brought out in the story of a Wild Goose Chase by Mr. F. Bullock-Webster. The experiences gained by rifle ranging for two summers in the Metagami Forest Reserve are told in an interesting style by Mr. H. W. Lyons. These are supplemented by a full list of contents, dealing with big game hunting, woodcock shooting, fishing, protective work, mountaineering, and kindred subjects, the whole bringing with it the whiffs of the woodlands in very full measure and largely accounting for the wide spread influence the magazine has gained amongst sportsmen on both sides of the border.

ber of weed seeds present, if any. The standard for No. 1 seed is not more than one noxious weed seed per 1,500 of good seed, while in the second quality five weed seeds per 1,000 are allowed, or 1/3 times as many. Farmers who have seed for sale, or even if they have only enough for their own use, should also have it tested for purity before selling or sowing. If this is not done there is danger of selling seed in violation of the Seed Control Act, and farmers are quite as liable to prosecution for selling low grade clover seed as seed dealers.

Ribgrass is one of the commonest weed seeds found in clover seed and one of the most difficult to separate by machinery. Where a farmer has only a small quantity of seed to handle, the following method of separation might be found practicable. Wrap a few fanning mill sieves with two or three ply cheese cloth. Dampen the cheese cloth and sprinkle the clover seed containing ribgrass over it. In a minute or two the moisture will develop the mucilage of the ribgrass, causing it to stick to the cheese cloth. With a little drying by wind or heat the clover seed will fall off and leave the ribgrass sticking to the cheese cloth. The ribgrass can be scraped off and this operation repeated with as many sieves as can be kept going. This method, of course is slow, but it can be used for small lots.

Care in the selection of seed is the first essential in the production of clean crops, but to produce a clean clover seed crop this must be supplemented by seeding on well prepared, clean land and weeding in the field.

One of the oldest precepts advanced by the teacher and the preacher is that in losing one's temper the angered one always puts himself in the weaker position as against the one with whom he differs. Not all theory holds good in practice, but this seems to have been pretty well accepted by the business world. Thus the question of "what is losing one's temper?" becomes worthy a little analysis and study. At a first glance on the part of a chance spectator, stepping into an office and unfamiliar with anything which may have occurred before, the sight of an indignant, angry man ordering another out of that office on penalty of being thrown out if he didn't go suggests to the average caller the loss of the occupant's temper. But has the man lost his temper? What does the caller at the moment know of the circumstances? In many possible circumstances the fact that the indignant one is allowing the offender the chance of walking out of the office with a whole skin is sufficient for any one that the angry man's temper is under perfect control. The offender, were he shot down in his tracks, might leave the assailant a likely defendant for acquittal by a jury. But the angry man merely is ordering the fellow out of the office.

But in innumerable cases the person provoking the outburst feels that the other has lost his temper. He may base his judgment upon the "fact" even that he had maintained his composure to the last. In reciting the incident he may lay stress upon the fact that as he left the man's office he bowed courteously and bade him good afternoon. The truth of the matter is that if there is a type of man under high heaven, built for the purpose of antagonizing and forcing a loss of temper, this one man represents that type. Just two types of men may offend in this way — the man, conscious of his right position, who maintains it regardless of what the other thinks, and the other who, thick of hide and selfish in his ends, presumes upon another's time and patience and good nature.

Any employee who makes a mistake through idleness and general inattention to his work should be discharged. If a competent and honest employee has made a mistake while doing his best he will stand for any reasonable taking to task for it. But even here the time for administering the talk is not always well chosen. A stranger may be present who should not be; the employee may be so entangled in an earnest duty of his own that his temper may be tried by the interruption and reproach of his employ-

THE BREAD FROM HEAVEN

The Meaning of the Prayer, "Give Us This Day Our Daily Bread."

"Give us this day our daily bread."—Matt. vi., 11.

In the prayer that men of almost every creed and those of none can join in praying we ask for the gift of daily bread. Does this mean that any are so foolish as to suppose that by miraculous intervention in answer to that petition our tables will be spread and our natural appetites satisfied? Perhaps it has this childish meaning to some.

But to those who enter into the universal significance of this petition it has a finer, greater content. It stands for that of which we are always conscious when we come into the presence of the infinite and find ourselves in the light of truth, and that is that we are never sufficient for any day without the bread that must be given to us, the food that strengthens the inner life.

Intellectually and spiritually we have not grown much beyond the high chair if our life has not deeper and more constant needs than those of meat and drink, if we have not come to know that man does not live by bread alone, if we have not come to feel that, no matter how great the abundance of things may be, unless we are nourished and supplied within we are in miserable poverty and famine.

That is the bitter tragedy of many lives, that they never come to know a hunger not satisfied by the

they live and die in a world circumscribed by things. Neither this nor any other prayer can have any reality to them, because their hands can grasp all their hearts seem to need. They may use the phrases of another life, but they are wholly limited to this one.

The meaning of this prayer may well be the measure of a man. If it means but bread what is he more than a digesting animal? But if it means longing after truth, hunger for love, the passion for perfection, the desire for the presence of great day our daily bread" to reach out our hands to the infinite, to believe that in some way the great Father of spirits knows our spirit, can speak with us; that the life beyond, that larger, completer life thoughts, then he has in him god-like capacities. Then to him prayer becomes not simply a possibility but a necessity which compels the habit of aspiration.

This is the prayer that humanity has been breathing in all its art its music and poetry; this has been the root of religion, the sense of the unsatisfied life and the unceasing endeavor to find that which meets those needs not catalogued in our physiologies nor met by our markets. Because man is a spirit he cries aloud for the life and light that lie beyond the dust and clay.

The reason so many even professedly religious people live such brutish lives is because they are crushing down this longing; they are too busy with the trifles and tools of living to provide for the needs of life itself, or they foolishly hope to satisfy and nourish their souls by weekly, predigested meals.

No man makes a greater mistake than he who neglects the appetites of his heart, who perhaps thinks to himself,

I AM A PRACTICAL MAN;

I have no time to waste in moonshine, in poetic or idealistic dreamings. The most impractical lives are those that have no time for dreams and the emptiest those whose hands are so full they have no time for their hearts.

When you get back to the secret of all great lives you will find this always true: That their roots struck deep; from far below the surface they were daily securing strength, endurance, courage to attempt high things and faith born of a sense of the things that do not change—the eternal verities.

We must find time to nourish the affections, feed the flame of high faith, satisfy life's inner longings for food that never was on table nor on board or we shall die at the roots, and, while maintaining all the other forms of life, shall be but walking forms from which the soul has fled.

We need to pray, "Give us this for which we are born, may be seen at times; its fair fruits may sometimes be our portion and in the strength of that food we may live our days as those who live forever.

HENRY F. COPE.

A DEAL IN DIAMONDS

Count Sacha Roubletsky was on his beam ends. To the world he was still a dashing young Russian nobleman, son of an immensely wealthy prince, but in point of fact he was financially at his last gasp.

Monte Carlo, the gaities of Paris, and now a succession of disastrous evenings at a London Westend ily that he was in temporary difficulties, pledged the diamond for the small sum of £50.

The next day found Count Sacha once more at Messrs. Sparkle and Shine's. His sweetheart, he said, was enchanted with the diamond, but—oh, the extravagance of these women—nothing would satisfy her now, but that she should have another diamond, absolutely matching the first.

The jewellers explained that to match such a stone would be a matter of great difficulty, and the price of the second gem would be enormously increased; in short, for such a pair of twin diamonds they would have to charge £3,000, a fancy

ROUND ABOUT NIAGARA

MEN AND A COW WITHOUT RESPECT FOR CATARACT.

Bossy Simms Began by Treating It Like a Trout Stream—Barrel Navigators.

People with practical minds seem bent on stripping the cataract of Niagara, its rapids and the whirlpool of some of the attributes they have had. There will always be people who will regard as fact the story of the maiden's sacrifice, who will persist in believing that it was a yearly custom of the Indian tribes living in the vicinity of the falls to sacrifice the prettiest maidens of their tribes to the god that was Niagara; but within the last fifteen years many things have occurred at Niagara to dissipate the romance of the cataract.

Something of a shock was felt when the engineers got busy and drove part of the river into the factories to turn wheels. People had said it could not be done and when it was done the awe that Niagara inspired was a bit lessened.

Several times natural agencies have taken liberties with the river, have stemmed the mighty current as if it were nothing more than a millrace. In 1848, or thereabout, the running ice from Lake Erie helped by a stiff wind piled the waters back on themselves and Niagara went dry at the cataract, and again in April of last year it was dammed so that men and women crossed from Prospect Park to Green Island.

BOSSY SIMMS.

But even before the engineers and the last ice dam was Bossy Simms. To her more than any other agency credit is due for stripping Niagara of its romance of irresistible power.

Bossy Simms was a mere cow, a Durham to judge by her picture. Her owner was the superintendent of the inclined railway in Prospect Park before the days of free Niagara and lived within catch of the spray from the falls. Bossy came to the park as a calf. Untrammelled with the prejudices of ordinary visitors, she went to the river as to a trout stream.

Frequently in summer time she went to wade in the river from near Prospect Point with no thought of danger and there slake her thirst, greatly to the amazement of the people that gathered in the park at 50 cents apiece to be stunned with wonder at the might and majesty of the cataract. Naturally, there was a public protest and many disillusioned sightseers demanded their money back. Bossy Simms had spoiled the show for them. "Pooh," they cried, "this is a fake! Fourteen miles to see this!" This was about 1860. A picture of Bossy Simms was taken when she was standing within 100 feet of the brink of the American fall. Soon after the public protest her owner withdrew her to the quiet of a country lot. She had no bovine successors in the park.

A SHOEMAKER'S NERVE.

But she had an imitator in the person of Amos Schwitzer, a shoemaker of Toronto, Ont., who on for it. But even here the time for administering the talk is not always well chosen. A stranger may be present who should not be; the employee may be so entangled in an earnest duty of his own that his temper may be tried by the interruption and reproof of his employer; to disturb his mental equilibrium when he is not prepared for it may lead only to another mistake. And always the fact that an employer cannot keep his temper for a proper time makes his presence in itself a disconcerting factor among his men. When an employer administers rebuke in any form and goes farther with it than the occasion demands in the person of the employee, either he is a bad judge of human nature or he has lost his temper. There are few men in the world who will not concede sooner or later the privilege of a righteous indignation. Indignation that is not righteous shows beyond all question a loss of temper that must be admitted!

Parisian bread is made without flour in a machine that transforms the wheat into dough. The machine consists mainly of a large screw turning loosely in a case on whose inner surface is a screw thread running in an opposite direction. Between the main threads on the cylinder are smaller threads, and the depth of the groove grows progressively smaller from one end to the other, so that it will hold the entire wheat grain as it enters the machine and will accommodate only the pulverized wheat at the exit.

The wheat is prepared by a thorough washing, after which about a pint of tepid water to a pound of grain is added, and the whole is allowed to stand about six hours. At the end of this time the grains of wheat have swollen to double their ordinary size. It is then mixed with the yeast and salt and poured into the machine. It falls between the threads of the moving screw and of the fixed contrary screw, which simultaneously crush the envelope and body of the grain, making of them a homogeneous mixture which forms a smooth paste. Bread obtained by this process contains a succession of holes whose size increases as they approach the crust, which is thin. The odor given off is most agreeable and far more pronounced than that of ordinary bakers' bread.

ONE GLEAM OF JOY.

Johnny had two presents at the same time—one a diary, which he kept very carefully, and the other a pea-shooting pop-gun, which he fired indiscriminately on all occasions.

One day his mother found the following terse record in his diary: "Mendy cold and sloppy. Toosdy cold and sloppy. Wensdy cold and sloppy shot Gramma."

Count Sacha Roubtelsky was on his beam ends. To the world he was still a dashing young Russian nobleman, son of an immensely wealthy prince, but in point of fact he was financially at his last gasp.

Monte Carlo, the gaities of Paris, and now a succession of disastrous evenings at a London Westend club, where high play was winked at, had cleaned him out.

Further, the most serious part of all, his father tired of his continual extravagances, had put his foot down, and given him the choice between returning to Russia and rusticating on the family estates, and shifting for himself.

Count Sacha had no mind to return to Russia. On the other hand, he must have money.

Apart from his personal extravagances, he had designs on an American heiress, temporarily resident in London, whom he had met on the Riviera, and it was necessary that he should be able to support his character of a rich young man.

Count Sacha was a bit of a "wrong 'un," but he was a courteous rogue. He wanted money badly, and was not very particular as to how he got it, so long as the means did not bring him within reach of the law's arm.

He wanted a thousand or so for nothing. That was the problem he debated as he sat in his Jermyn Street lodging smoking cigarette after cigarette. At last he rose, with a satisfied smile on his Tartar face.

Next morning Count Sacha Roubtelsky called on Messrs. Sparkle and Shine, the well-known Bond Street jewellers. He explained who he was, and that he had come to select some jewellery for his sweetheart.

He added that the lady was a collector of gems, and that he proposed to present her with a fine unmounted diamond, and desired to be shown some specimens.

From the glittering tray he selected a beautiful stone, price £500. He then explained that, owing to certain remittances being delayed, he was not in a position to complete the purchase at the moment, and, in any case, he wished first to submit the stone to his sweetheart's approval.

He added suavely that, of course, he was unknown to Messrs. Sparkle and Shine, he could not expect them to part with the gem without making inquiries, but they were quite at liberty to apply to the Russian Embassy for any information they desired concerning him. He proposed to return the following day, and, everything being satisfactory, to take away the diamond.

To this course, the jewellers agreed, and, inquiring at the Russian Embassy, were informed that Count Sacha was unquestionably what he himself claimed to be—the son of a wealthy prince, and that Messrs. Sparkle and Shine would probably be safe in giving him credit for even more than the amount mentioned.

They did not know at the Embassy that Sacha had practically been disowned by his father—and they were agreeable to the Count's own suggestion, that a member of the Embassy should attend at the jewellers next day, formally to identify him. This was done, and Count Sacha received the diamond.

The same day he called at a big pawnbroker's, and, mentioning air-other diamond, absolutely matching the first.

The jewellers explained that to match such a stone would be a matter of great difficulty, and the price of the second gem would be enormously increased; in short, for such a pair of twin diamonds they would have to charge £3,000, a fancy price, but it was a fancy order.

Count Sacha shrugged his shoulders—the price was stiff, but he could deny his sweetheart nothing—he would Messrs. Sparkle and Shine, please, at once set about procuring the second diamond, which, he insisted, must be an absolute match in weight, color, shape, cutting and every particular.

The jewellers, being unable to match the diamond themselves, wrote round to the leading dealers and pawnbrokers, describing the stone they wanted, and intimating that they were prepared to go as far as £2,000 for a perfect specimen. Among these they wrote to was the pawnbroker with whom Count Sacha had pledged the original diamond, which was just what that ingenious rascal had intended should happen.

A few days later Count Sacha called at the pawnbroker's, and said he had come to redeem his diamond. Summoned by an assistant, the proprietor himself appeared.

He had had Messrs. Sparkle and Shine's letter, and, remembering the beautiful diamond pledged with him a day or two before, he had examined it, and, naturally, found that it met all of Sparkle and Shine's requirements.

The Count redeemed the stone, and then the pawnbroker inquired whether by chance he would care to sell it?

Oh, no, it was a family heirloom; his customer would not dream of parting with it.

That was a pity, said the pawnbroker; he had chanced to show the diamond to his wife, and she had taken a violent fancy to it, so much so that, to gratify her, he was prepared to give a fancy price—he offered £500.

Count Sacha laughed and shook his head. £1,000? Oh, no, he really did not want to sell it, and he must be going. An offer of £1,500, however, made him hesitate. At last, after prolonged chaffering, Count Sacha passed back the diamond to the pawnbroker, and received £1,500 in exchange.

Once outside, he jumped into a cab, and drove as fast as he could to Messrs. Sparkle and Shine's.

Arrived there, he explained, with many regrets, that his sweetheart had changed her mind; she no longer wanted the second diamond. Had the jewellers yet found it? No, ah, that was well. Still, he feared he had put them to much trouble. He was desolated. However, he was glad to say his remittances had arrived, and he had now much pleasure in handing over £500 in payment for the original diamond which his sweetheart had decided to keep.

£5,000 to the good, Count Sacha left the shop, having "brought off" a most ingenious swindle. Yet can anyone say where he came within reach of the law?—Pearson's Weekly.

Head of flour mill company says reason for high cost of living is to be found in the fact that people do not eat enough bread. Naturally. He'd be out of a job if he thought otherwise.

After the public protest her owner withdrew her to the quiet of a country lot. She had no bovine successors in the park.

A SHOEMAKER'S NERVE.

But she had an imitator in the person of Amos Schwitzer, a shoemaker of Toronto, Ont., who on June 6, 1906, made a perfect show of the cataract. For fully forty-five minutes he stood in the stream, twenty feet or so from the brink and thirty-five feet out from Prospect Point, his hat cocked over his ear and a cane in his hands, this between 1.30 and 2.15 a.m., with the tremendous beauty of Niagara set forth under a dazzling moon. He was arrested as he stood at the brink by a policeman.

Then there was Mrs. Anna Edson Taylor, who successfully made a trip over the Horseshoe fall in a barrel.

Pretty much the same liberties have been taken with the rapids and whirlpool. Doubtless many Indians attempted the rapids trip in canoes and doubtless all went to their death in the journey. So there came from their people extravagant tales of its terrors.

But in 1861 the romances received a severe jolt when the Maid of the Mist, a tub of a vessel, went careering down the stream from the foot of the falls to Lake Ontario with Joel Robinson at the wheel, to escape levy, suffering no injury except the loss of her smokestack, which was kicked off by a wave.

Then came Capt. Matthew Webb, who in 1883 tried to swim the rapids and was killed in the attempt, his head coming in contact with a submerged rock. The interest that his fear aroused brought to Niagara other venturesome spirits, most of them

BARREL NAVIGATORS.

Graham and Hazlett and Potts in the vanguard. All made the trip through the tumble of waters without mishap, one among the number a woman, Sadie Allen.

About ten years after the first barrel fleet had sailed through a second fleet came down the river. Of the score that entered for honors only one was killed, a woman who was suffocated in her barrel in the whirlpool through slow work on the part of her supporters on shore. It was even declared that Thomas Kendall, a Boston policeman, swam the rapids in the '80s, but his right to fame has not gone unchallenged.

The coming summer promises unusual things in Niagara feats. There has already been offered a purse of $1,000 and a $500 trophy for a motor boat race through the rapids, the whirlpool and down to Lewiston, where the river broadens to a calm commercial stream. Fifteen adventurers have announced their intention of trying for fame and fortune in the race. It is declared that a motor boat stoutly built and having powerful engines can make the trip without misadventure. Peter Neissen of Chicago a few years ago went safely through in a small steel craft, suffering only a wetting. The only difficulty that threatens is official interference on one side or the other of the river.

JARA LIGHTNING AND THUNDER

SOME CURIOUS FACTS ABOUT STORMS.

Destructive Lightning Flashes Which were Unaccompanied Without Sound.

In a general way we understand the theory of thunderstorms. As a matter of fact, there is no phenomenon of Nature—not excepting even earthquakes—of which we know so little.

Man-made lightning—that is, electricity of the highest power which we can artificially produce—will act according to certain known laws. It will, for instance, travel along a conductor of metal.

But a flash of lightning will frequently leap from a well-defined metal path, and launch itself through the air or some adjacent object which is an infinitely poorer conductor.

This may be due to the almost inconceivable force of a flash of lightning. It is estimated that a flash of lightning a mile long represents a pressure of discharge equal to

THREE BILLION VOLTS.

As such a flash lasts only about the thousandth part of a second, the energy dissipated by the discharge is equal to 300,000 horsepower. Put it in other words, if we could find some means of saving and using lightning we should be the richer by $1,000 for every flash.

Lightning is, as we know, usually accompanied by a peal of thunder which is louder the nearer the hearer is to the point of the discharge. But this is not an invariable rule. There are cases on record of most destructive lightning flashes which were unaccompanied by any sound whatsoever.

Such a phenomenon occurred at Bradford, England, some years ago. What is described as "a silent thunderbolt" fell in a graveyard, destroying one monument and smashing to atoms nearly seventy glass cases containing wreaths and flowers.

In the same summer Swancombe, in Kent, was terrified by a strange freak of lightning. All of a sudden "a great mass of blue fire" swept along the street, and next moment it was seen that the fine old parish church, built nearly seven hundred years ago, had been struck. The building, with all its fine old carved oak, was soon and only a part of the chancel was saved.

Scientists are still hopelessly at sea as to the cause of that peculiar phenomenon known as globe lightning. One such fell at Coventry some years ago during a violent thunderstorm, and, passing along a street like a soap bubble built of blue fire, drifted into a shed, where it exploded, blowing the roof off the place.

At Rheims, in France, a similar fire-ball came into a cobbler's shop through the open window. The solitary occupant of the place sat perfectly still, paralyzed with terror, while his fearful visitor hovered for several seconds overhead. Then it moved towards the fireplace and presently passed up the chimney.

THE S. S. LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, MAR. 20.

A Paralytic Forgiven and Healed, Matt. 9. 1-13. Golden Text, Matt. 9. 6.

Verse 1. Entered into a boat.—According to the request of the people of Gerasa. He had gone thither for retirement, but events had thrust him once more into the thick of the crowd, and he turned back to his own city (Capernaum). Compare the additional interesting details of the story of the demoniac in Mark 5. 18-20.

2. They brought to him—From a study of the accounts in the first three Gospels it is impossible to tell what was the exact situation—whether Jesus was in the synagogue (David Smith), or in the house of Peter, or on the covered veranda of the house (Edersheim). At any rate, the throng was so great as to make access to Jesus impossible except through a hole in the roof.

Lying on a bed—Anything like a modern bedstead was rare among the ancients. Usually a thin mattress, sometimes supported by a light wooden portable frame, sufficed.

Seeing their faith—An example of prevailing intercessory faith. The man, being sick of the palsy, would hardly have the mental alertness requisite to an act of faith. Still, it may have been at his own instigation that the four friends had brought him to Jesus.

Be of good cheer—On his face must have been signs of the despair, and probably also the remorse, which was in his heart because of the sins which perhaps were responsible for his helpless condition. His bodily weakness had driven home the sense of his guilt and made him aware that his first need was to be forgiven. Jesus saw this and went to the root of the trouble at once.

3. Scribes—Tradition has assigned them a threefold task: (1) To study and develop the law; (2) to teach it; (3) to act as judges in the practical administration of the law. They were present on this occasion as critics of the method of Jesus. They had been deeply offended by his praise of the Gentile centurion, and were otherwise suspicious of Jesus. It is not improbable that they represented the Sanhedrin.

This man blasphemeth—To claim to be able to remit sins was to throw down the gauntlet to his opponents, for it was an assumption of both the uncommunicable power and the right of God. All the accusations of blasphemy brought against Jesus (three in number) were of this character. To speak blasphemously was to render oneself liable to the extreme penalty of the law.

4. Knowing their thoughts—Compare John 2. 25. All three accounts make it plain that knowledge of the reasoning of the scribes came, not from what they said, but from what he saw in their hearts, another evidence of a power not human.

5. Which is easier—There could be no doubt that it was easier to say. Thy sins are forgiven. Ac-of his countrymen." With such men, and with sinners of equal disrepute, Matthew invited Jesus to eat, in order that he might, in parting with them, make open confession of his new allegiance.

11. When the Pharisees saw—According to the custom the banquet hall would stand open to the public gaze, and the Pharisees had followed him with set purpose.

They said unto his disciples—Why not to Jesus himself? Perhaps they were still smarting from his recent exposure of them, and feared further embarrassments. Another suggestion is that they thought by their scorn to draw some from following Jesus.

12. He said—Making himself spokesman for his disciples. In one swift sentence he discloses his sympathy for the outcast, and epitomizes his mission as the physician of those who are morally and spiritually sick.

13. Go... learn—They knew this familiar word about mercy and sacrifice. But, apparently, they had not learned its meaning. Jesus had often upon his lips this thought that was so present in the utterance of the prophets. God wants not the vain sacrifices into which men put no humility and reverence, but he wants worship that issues into fair play. These Pharisees knew how to quibble over the minutiae of the law, but they knew nothing of the compassionate treatment of their fellows.

Not to call the righteous—If they were the righteous they had no more need for him.

ORCHID HUNTER'S TACT

MANY WILES NECESSARY IN DEALING WITH NATIVES.

Indians on Approach Apt to Take to Jungle With All Their Belongings.

Besides the qualities of bravery, resourcefulness, and what not which the successful South American orchid hunter must have, a patient tact will stand him in good stead—in fact, upon this depends altogether his getting along with the Indians of the interior. One of the stories, which George L. Freeman, the hardy and experienced searcher after orchids, who has recently returned from a 10,000-mile trip, delights to tell is that of the wiles which one must employ in dealing with these people, whose only conception of the infrequent visitor is a murderer and a destroyer.

Little have they of value, but shelter and feed for the mules are at times necessities for the hunter, especially if he is in a country where natural dangers are great and camping ground inadequate. So whenever he comes across a native hut he avails himself of the opportunity to take a much-needed rest.

IF HE CAN.

"Lucky you think yourself if you chance to run across a path in the tangle," said Freeman. "That means an Indian's place near by—it is easy enough to tell from the marks which way it lies. You turn your boy and mules that direction

On the Farm

FARM NOTES.

The flavor of eggs is influenced by the food. This may easily be tested by shutting up a laying hen and giving her garlic to eat. In a few days the eggs will indicate the flavor.

Dairymen who cannot patronize creameries will find it to their advantage to secure customers in the nearest village or city, who will regularly consume all the butter they can make. If a first-class article is produced it is not difficult to get more consumers than needed.

The time is soon to come when farmers will be utterly dissatisfied with present yields of crops. It should be no difficult thing to double the present average, and when this is accomplished, it will be due very much to the use of labor-saving apparatus for making and applying manure, and to the practice of increasing the supply by making compost heaps, which will be easily applied to the land.

The Colorado station authorities have been experimenting with cement fence-posts. Tests proved that the life of the best wooden posts is from twelve to fifteen years. In the making of cement posts the following conclusions were reached: Poured posts are easier to make than tamped ones, but are more expensive, because one mold will make but one poured post per day. Poured posts are more than 25 per cent. stronger than tamped ones, beside being more nearly waterproof. The most economical mold is the one that casts a post of equal dimensions throughout. Two or more wires twisted together furnish as satisfactory a reinforcement as can be obtained.

LIVE STOCK NOTES.

Work, rest and food, enough of each, and pure air for 24 hours in each day, are the laws of perfect horse management.

Hogs have suffered no depression in the last two years, and in view of present conditions, there is little likelihood of the market being overstocked with swine for the next eighteen months. Indeed, one was never surer of good returns from swine-breeding and feeding than today.

There can be no doubt that the larger combed birds are the better layers, and there would appear to be a distinct affinity between the comb and the egg organs, but when the size of comb is carried to an extreme, we find this reaction, and the result is that the excessively heavy-combed birds are worse layers than those with medium combs.

We should not fear for bad results from a heifer turned on heavy pasture and becoming fat on the same, or from the use of oats, bran and ensilage for winter feed. Some feeds, like corn, that appear to retard the development of the milk organs, we should avoid.

SLOP V. SWILL FOR HOGS.

There is a wide difference be-fire-ball came into a cobbler's shop through the open window. The solitary occupant of the place sat perfectly still, paralyzed with terror, while his fearful visitor hovered for several seconds overhead. Then it moved towards the fireplace and presently passed up the chimney.

"Next moment there was an explosion like a shell bursting, and the upper part of the chimney came crashing down in ruins.

Not long ago Count G. Hamilton made a record of a similar freak of electricity. He was sitting at dinner at a house on Lake Wener, in Sweden, when, just after a vivid flash of lightning, a brilliant white ball appeared over the table, and, after hanging poised there for some seconds, went off with a loud bang. Fortunately, it did no harm to anyone although it was quite close to several people. Those who saw it suggested it was like

A BALL OF COLD LIGHTNING.

In November, 1902, Sydney, Australia, was visited by a terrific duststorm, in the midst of which a perfect rain of electric fireballs began to fall. These set fire to a number of houses, and a most appalling panic set in. A cry was raised that the end of the world was at hand, and people rushed out of their houses into the ink-black, dust-deep streets.

The most amazing and terrifying displays of the power of lightning are seen on mountain tops. In 1890 a party were on the top of a mountain in the Caucasus when a huge violet ball surrounded by vivid rays struck a rock near by and, exploding like a bomb, burst it to atoms. One of the party was badly hurt.

The observatory at Pike's Peak had to be abandoned on account of the terrible visitations of fire-balls. No conductor would protect it from being struck.

Lieut. Finley gives a vivid description of an electric snowstorm on this mountain. Each snowflake as it fell shone with cold white fire, until he and his mule both appeared as though studded with luminous diamonds.—Pearson's Weekly.

POSTMISTRESS HAD NERVE.

Presence of Mind Resulted in Two Thieves Being Caught.

A remarkable instance of bravery and presence of mind on the part of an old lady has occurred at Eaton, England.

Mrs. Ann Reeve, the postmistress, a woman of sixty-eight, was sorting the mail-bag when she heard noises in the shop and saw two men ransacking the drawers. She at once pushed one of them aside and was going to tackle the other when she was struck to the ground with a violent blow from some instrument, which cut open her forehead. She got to her feet, however, rushed out of the shop, and, after locking the door on the strangers, roused the whole village. The house was quickly surrounded by the villagers. One of the two men was caught in the shop. The other tried to force his way through the roof. He made a hole and put his head through, only to find one of the villagers standing guard with a thick stick. He was warned not to come through and on persisting, received a blow which sent him to the floor below. The villagers handed both men, securely bound with cords, to the police.

make it plain that knowledge of the reasoning of the scribes came, not from what they said, but from what he saw in their hearts, another evidence of a power not human.

5. Which is easier—There could be no doubt that it was easier to say, Thy sins are forgiven. According to a strict tradition, no man could get release from disease until all his sins had been remitted. If Jesus could heal, that in itself was proof of his power to forgive. An impostor would be detected at once, who should say, Arise, and walk; whereas anyone could say, without fear of his shame being detected, "Thy sins are forgiven."

6 Son of man—A phrase occurring eighty-one times in the Gospels, but used invariably by our Lord himself. An Old Testament title, which Jesus's hearers, together with all Jews, would understand to refer to the Messiah. By using it to designate himself Jesus proclaimed himself the Anointed of God, Fulfillment of Jewish hope, while emphasizing the closeness of his relation to the human race. It included the depths of humiliation and the heights of kingship.

Hath authority on earth—As well as in heaven. He had not lost his right to forgive by condescending to his lowly human estate.

Arise—That alone might not have been convincing. But that he was able to bring into play his entire body in the act of gathering up his bed, and then to push through the dense press of people in getting to his house, was a complete vindication of the claim of Jesus. By this miracle Jesus allows himself to go on record as declaring his equality with God.

8. They glorified God who had given such authority unto men—They missed the significance of the incarnation. This was not power delegated to a mere man, but power inherent in Jesus as the Son of God. God did commit to specially ordained men the power of forgiveness, but a conditional, not an absolute power (John 20, 23).

Verses 9-13 treat of still another challenge to the Pharisees.

9. Matthew—This seems to be the adopted name of the man who figures in the other Gospels as Levi, the son of Alphaeus.

At the place of toll—Taxes were collected from goods imported or exported, and Capernaum would be a suitable place for a custom-house, situated as it was on the lake and on the great caravan route between Egypt and Damascus.

Follow me—His immediate response may be explained by the widespread fame of Jesus, and his own opportunities of hearing and seeing Jesus.

10. At meat in the house—From Luke we learn positively that it was Matthew's house, and "a great multitude" were there.

Publicans—A class hated by the Jews. The gathering of taxes was "farmed out" by the government at Rome, and was under the control of powerful capitalists. Extortion was the rule. The tax-collectors of the Gospels were agents of the monopolists and bore the brunt of hatred, being classed with cutthroats and robbers. The type most obnoxious of all were the Jewish publicans, of whom Matthew was one. Though a Jew, "he had hired himself to the Roman government to do the heathen's work for the heathen's gold, profiting by the shame and oppression

IF HE CAN.

"Lucky you think yourself if you chance to run across a path in the tangle," said Freeman. "That means an Indian's place near by—it is easy enough to tell from the marks which way it lies. You turn your boy and mules that direction with a hopeful heart, and all of a sudden you come upon a clearing, generally less than a half acre."

"But all is deserted. Invariably you find that the native has been aware of your coming, and has taken to the jungle with wife, children and all the movables that they can carry. Leading your mules, you go and sit by the door, careful not to look at anything as if you wanted it, for at least two or three pairs of sharp eyes are looking at you from the bushes, certain that you have come to kill and take."

"If you are wise, you will seem concerned for the mules—poor, tired mules—and the muleteer bewails the fact that they have no food and shelter. After half an hour, perhaps, a little brown head pops from the tangle—one of the children. Don't look that way; rub the mules the harder. The native has two qualities to which you must play, curiosity and kindness to animals."

"The little brown head pops out again, nearer, and at last, with a burst of courage, the owner comes quite close. Give the child a trinket. Finally the whole family appears, and Never say that you need shelter, but the mules—what good ones they are, how tired and sore and hungry. Can't they have shelter and feed? No hay, no hay is the answer; they have nothing."

YOUR PALAVER BEGINS.

"You say that your idiot of a boy has hurt his arm—cannot one of the children cut grass for the poor mules? But for them you would never have stopped and bothered the people; when you saw the hut you thanked heaven for the mules' sake. Perhaps then one of the children can cut some fodder before you go on—the father and mother are no puerd—not able. And by the time you have fed all the animals, some of them are asleep."

"You say that night is coming on and that you cannot take the poor mules into the jungle—cannot all stay for the night? Then comes the interminable palaver, with distrust on the part of the Indians, all over again. Well, at last, you may stay, and you bundle up and go to sleep, with the boy on watch. In the morning you prepare to go; what must you give them for their trouble? Three or four steel nails which you carry for your orchid cases are enough—about one cent."

NOT A MODEL FAMILY.

"Your father doesn't think you have been especially well-behaved," said the small boy's uncle.

"I know that," answered the precocious juvenile. "But things I have heard mother say makes me think he isn't any judge of high-class deportment."

A NEW DISEASE.

A little girl one day came in the sitting-room with a little sick chicken in her hand and said, "Do something for him quick. I am 'fraid he's got the perrin poritis (appendicitis)."

same, or from the use of oats, bran and ensilage for winter feed. Some feeds, like corn, that appear to retard the development of the mink organs, we should avoid.

SLOP V. SWILL FOR HOGS.

There is a wide difference between slop and swill. Slop is properly a hog's relish, while swill is too frequently nothing more than water polluted with unhealthful refuse. The term swill may embrace a wide variety of feed or drink, ranging from ordinary dish-water to a mixture of milk, table scraps, soapuds and other kitchen refuse, while slop is a combination of a ground feed or feeds, with water or milk. A supply of wholesome swill in connection with other feeds may be extremely valuable, but in a condition of decay, rancid, and mainly filth, it may result in a loss of high-priced animals. Slop, however, may be considered as always in order.—Coburn's "Swine in America."

ANIMAL FOOD FOR HENS.

If heavy winter laying is to be expected the hens must be supplied with some form of meat food. Of all the meat foods, green cut bone is the best since it supplies the meat matter in a fresh state, and also the bones contain essential mineral matter for forming shells and building and repairing waste of the bone of the hen. Where green bone cannot be secured feed scraps and meat meal. Skim milk being of animal origin, is a good food for laying hens, but it is very much diluted with water and the hens must consume many pounds of it in order to secure a few ounces of protein and mineral matter.

NATURALLY BASHFUL.

Many happy marriages have been made on short acquaintance, nevertheless, it is unwise to recommend very short courtships as a general rule. A writer in Tit-Bits relates an instance of the extremely brief wooing of a certain English maid, who had gone to America. One morning she appeared before her mistress, and announced that she had named the day and would become a wife at the end of the week.

"Are you going back home, then?" the lady asked.

"Oh, no, ma'am; it's an American gentleman," replied the maid. "But," remonstrated her mistress, "you've only been here a fortnight."

"That's no matter. He wants the wedding to be on Saturday."

"But can't you get him to postpone the marriage just a little till I can get another maid?"

"Well, ma'am, I'd like to oblige you, but, ye see, I don't feel well enough acquainted to ask him to do that."

AERIAL NOURISHMENT.

"Orchids live on air," said the botanist.

"I don't know about that," replied young Mr. Flimm. "But if I keep on buying them, I'll have to."

HOPING.

"She's living in hope."
"What is it?"
"That some day a style in hair dressing will come in that will really become her."

Hints for Busy Housekeepers.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

HOT BREADS.

Corn Bread.—One and one-fourth cupfuls flour, three-fourths cupful cornmeal, one-fourth cupful sugar, generous lump butter, one egg, one cupful sweet milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Cream butter and sugar, add egg, milk, and flour; beat well, then fold in the B. P.

Popovers.—To make one dozen popovers use two cupfuls of milk, one teaspoonful of salt (level), two cupfuls of flour, and two eggs. Mix the well beaten yolks with the milk. Add gradually to the flour and salt. Then add the stiffly beaten whites. Have the gem pans well greased and very hot. Bake in a moderate oven twenty-one minutes exactly. This is the real English popover.

Date Muffins.—One-third cupful of butter, one-fourth cupful of sugar, one egg, three-fourths cupful of milk, two cupfuls of pastry flour, three level teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, scant half pound of dates. Cream the butter, add the sugar and egg, beaten light, sift together three times flour, baking powder, and salt; add these to first mixture alternately with milk, beat thoroughly, and add dates, stoned and cut in pieces. Bake in a hot, well buttered muffin pan.

Soft Ginger Bread.—One-half cupful of sugar, scant cupful of molasses, one-half cupful of butter, one teaspoonful of ginger, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, two teaspoonfuls of soda, one cupful of boiling water, two and one-half cupfuls of flour.

Brown Bread.—Two cupfuls of sour milk, two-thirds of cupful of dark brown sugar, two level teaspoonfuls of soda, pinch of salt, three cupfuls of graham flour. Bake on: hour. Easily made.

EGGS.

Egg Economy.—An egg is a necessity when making good coffee. Try this method: Purchase two pounds of coffee at one time, put in a shallow pan, break the whites of two eggs over it, and mix well, now place in a warm oven (not hot) and let it remain until dry and glossy (stirring occasionally). Remove from oven, put in the coffee receptacle, and it is ready at a moment's notice. When preparing use only cold water and you will have the most excellent cup of coffee, to say nothing of time, trouble and expense saved.

Egg Helps.—The following suggestions may be of some assistance when you have a separate white or yolk of an egg on hand that seems to fit in nowhere. A single yolk may be used for either one of these sauces: white, chocolate, Hollandaise, Parnaise, hot maitre d'hotel, drawn butter, also for mayonnaise, boiled dressing, for cement balls, and dumplings for soup. A surplus white or two may be used for meringues, snow puddings, cream whips, macaroons, sherbets, for clearing soups, coffee, jellies; added to cream, it will increase the bulk and speedily whiten it, if well and pour in buttered pans, and cut in squares.

Fudge.—Two cupfuls of sugar to one cupful of milk, three squares of bitter chocolate, a piece of butter the size of a walnut, one cupful of walnuts chopped fine, a teaspoonful of vanilla extract; boil fifteen or twenty minutes, pour in a greased pan when hard, and cut in squares.

USEFUL HINTS.

Button Help.—Pin the button-holed edge of the garment in place. Take a needleful of thread, begin at one end and take a single stitch in every buttonhole, carrying the thread to the opposite end. Cut the thread half way between the buttonholes, lift off the cloth, and there will be a bit of thread where each buttonhole should be sewed.

Broken Plaster.—To mend broken plastering—When plaster of Paris is not at hand, use this excellent substitute. Use equal parts of sifted coal ashes and fine sand with one of sifted wheat flour. Mix to a stiff paste with cold water. This will set hard in a few hours, and any one can apply it.

Clean Comforters.—A way to keep your bed comforters clean. Make a large slip, similar to a pillow slip, from white muslin. Finish at the end with buttons and buttonholes. They can be slipped off at any time, at the same time keeping your comforter clean. In case of sickness: If your comforter is soiled and you haven't time to wash it, or as in winter, when you can't wash it, just slip the covering of muslin over it and button it shut. The sick person's bed then looks fresh and clean.

Instead of a collar button.—A small button sewed to the back of the collar band will be found to be much more comfortable than a collar button, and has the merit of not getting lost. Hubby need no longer hunt for his collar button.

Broom Holder.—Take two large empty spools, two nails about an inch longer than spools, but nail through the spools and drive the nails, leaving enough space between spools for the broom to hang in.

Stove Cement.—If the stove is cracked a good cement is made by taking wood ashes and salt in equal proportions, reduced to a paste with cold water, and fill in cracks when stove is cold. It will soon harden.

Testing Nutmeg.—To test nutmegs prick them with a pin, and if they are good the oil will instantly spread around the puncture.

HUSBAND'S CLOTHES.

Remove Shine.—Cover a small piece of wood with emery paper, no sand paper, and gently rub over shiny places.

If you will add a tablespoonful of bleaching to half a cupful of water and sponge shiny places it will remove the shine.

AUSTRALIA'S BIG TREES

EXCEED FAMOUS REDWOODS OF CALIFORNIA.

Varieties of Eucalyptus are so Hard That They Defy Decay When Under Water.

That the tallest trees in the world are not the California "big trees" at all, but the Australian eucalyptus, will be a surprise to many Americans, but not to those who have visited the forests of Australia. In that far-away land, under the Southern Cross, grow trees that tower in the air 150 feet higher than the great Sequoia. Some specimens of the Eucalyptus amygdalina reach to the great height of 400 feet, and specimens abound that are from 120 to 200 feet in circumference. The larger ones are practically of no use for commercial purposes, as the expense of cutting them down and splitting them up is so great that these monsters are passed by the thrifty lumbermen for the smaller ones that are more easily handled. This information we glean from an article by Edgerton R. Young, on "The Tallest Tree That Grows," which appears in the National Geographic Magazine (Washington). Says Mr. Young:

"The Eucalyptus amygdalina is the tallest, if not perhaps the largest, tree that grows. Specimens over 400 feet high are frequently found, while some have been measured towering up to 470 and 480 feet. The timber of these great specimens is easily worked, and, as it does not warp readily, is much used in carpentry.

PLATFORM AT BASE.

"(In illustration) we see the method adopted by the skilled lumbermen of Australia in felling the eucalyptus trees that are not too large for their purpose. The bottom of the eucalyptus is generally so gnarled and twisted that the men construct a rough, but safe, platform, averaging from 12 to 20 feet from the ground. Here, with their great long-handled axes and saws, they work and toil until the giant tree, that perhaps for over a thousand years has lifted up its head in that land of almost perpetual sunshine, is laid low.

"From (another) illustration . . . we can form some idea of the magnitude of one of these giant eucalyptus trees. In a great cavernous opening in its side was sufficient room for a commodious kitchen, with all of its appliances, for the accommodation of Lord Hopetoun, Governor-General of Australia, and his suite, during one of the visits to one of the regions where these gigantic trees abound in the State of Victoria.

"The eucalyptus tree is a genus of trees and shrubs of the natural order of Myrtaceae, embracing about 150 species. All but four of them are natives of Australia and Tasmania only. The eucalyptus trees are so abundant in many parts of Australia that over vast areas they are practically

SOME NOTED RECLUSES

GENIUSES WHO SELDOM LEAVE THEIR HOMES.

Hermit Life of the Chelsea Sage—Great Painter Lives in Strict Seclusion.

Carlyle once remarked when a friend chided him for being such a recluse that social life was work's greatest enemy. The Chelsea Sage considered that a man must shun acquaintances and friends if he wished to give the world his best work, and a study of the lives of some present-day geniuses shows that it is total absorption in their work which causes them to hide from the public gaze, says London Tit-Bits.

Take the case of Matthew Maris, for instance, the well known painter, whose picture, "Four Mills," fetched 3,300 guineas at Christie's a few days ago. Maris lives in strict seclusion in London lodgings, the whereabouts of which is only known to about half a dozen people. He is now an old man of 70 years of age and rarely leaves his study. And not only does he hide himself from the public, but he also HIDES HIS PICTURES.

He has not sold a painting for years; although dealers are willing to pay thousands of pounds for them, as is evident from the prices fetched by those which are occasionally put up for auction.

Maris reminds one of the great Italian sculptor, Vincenzo Gemito, who twenty years ago shut himself in his study and refused to leave it. To a certain extent Gemito's reason has become unsettled owing to overwork and distressing mental suffering and one of the reasons why he would not leave his study was that he feared the attacks of fantastic foes, who were the figments of his disordered brain, but his malady in no way interfered with his work. For twenty years Gemito has been working hard at the production of statuettes, real masterpieces, which he modelled and remodelled time after time, bringing them to the highest degree of perfection.

It was reported a few days ago, however, that Gemito had been induced to leave his study by no less a personage than the Duchess of Aosta, who frequently visited him. At the sunny streets of Naples. At the palace he was cheerfully greeted by the Duke and Duchess of Aosta, who entertained him for a considerable time.

THE EFFECT WAS MAGICAL.

Throwing off the depressing gloom of years the aged sculptor returned home full of joy, declaring that he would come out again and enjoy life.

For the first time for some years Tolstoy left his home at the beginning of October to pay a visit to a friend in Moscow. The famous Russian has for many years led a peaceful and quiet life on his estate at Yasnaya Polyana, which is situated about 130 miles south of Moscow, amid forests and surrounded by beautiful hilly country, devoting his time between writing lance, Peanase, hot maitre d'hôtel, drawn butter, also for mayonnaise, boiled dressing, for cement balls, and dumplings for soup. A supplus white or two may be used for meringues, snow puddings, cream whips, macaroons, sherbets, for clearing soups, coffee, jellies; added to cream, it will increase the bulk and speed whipping; if well beaten and applied lightly with a piece of flannel it will cleanse and freshen all leather.

Creamed Eggs.—Take a tablespoonful of flour and mix in a little sweet milk or cream; when smooth add a half pint of milk and a pinch of salt; boil two or three minutes. Have a warm platter with several slices of slightly toasted bread on it, on which are placed hard boiled eggs cut in quarters. Pour the hot sauce over these and serve immediately. This is a delicious dish for a luncheon. Try it.

ECONOMICAL DISHES.

Cake.—Eggless, butterless layer cake: One-half cupful of lard beaten to a cream with one cupful of sugar, two slightly rounding teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one level teaspoonful of salt mixed with two level cupfuls of flour and thoroughly sifted, one scant cupful of milk or half milk and half water, one-half teaspoonful of vanilla. To the creamed sugar add milk and flour alternately, then vanilla. Bake in three layers. Date filling: One cupful of chopped dates, one-half cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of water. Cook slowly until thick. When partly cool put between layers.

Gravy Without Meat.—Cut fine one large onion and fry in two tablespoonfuls of bacon frivings, or lard and butter mixed. When nicely browned add two tablespoonfuls of flour and brown, adding water gradually, as for any gravy, until about a pint has been used. Season highly with pepper and salt and add one and a half cupfuls of canned tomatoes. Let simmer for twenty minutes, or until right consistency and a nice brown, stirring well. If carefully made and browned this gravy is delicious, and even your own family will doubt that there is no meat foundation. It is particularly adaptable and good with rice steamed and served as a vegetable—southern style. For a nutritious, palatable, and economical dish there is none superior to rice and gravy as above. Pile the rice high in a vegetable dish and serve the gravy from a boat.

CANDY.

Divinity.—Three cupfuls of granulated sugar, two-thirds of a cupful of water, one-third cupful corn syrup. Let cook until when tried in water it hits hard against glass. Pour this gradually in the whites of two eggs beaten stiff. Add one thickener, pour in buttered tins, cupful nuts; beat until it begins to When cool cut in squares.

Fruit Roll.—One pound of dates stoned and chopped, one pound of English walnut meats chopped; mix well together, roll out in shape of large sausage, and roll in granulated sugar; slice into quarter inch slices.

Puffed Rice Fudge.—One cupful of milk, two cupfuls of sugar, one square of chocolate. Boil fifteen or twenty minutes, then take off the stove and put two cupfuls of puffed rice and a piece of butter as large as an egg, and flavoring, then beat and sand paper, and gently rub over shiny places.

If you will add a tablespoonful of blueing to half a cupful of water and sponge shiny places it will remove the shine.

Hang Pressed Trousers.—Fit a broom handle under shelf of closet. Cover with several layers of batting and then with cambric. Fasten so that broom handle will hang at least four inches from wall. Fold trousers and hang over stick. Keep them new looking.

Greasy Coat Collars.—Sponge with alcohol and salt. Will clean them thoroughly.

Clean a Suit.—Spread a sheet on table and rub as much black magnesia on suit as it will take. Wrap in sheet and hang away for several days. Brush thoroughly and press with a moderate iron and damp

ENGLISH JUSTICE.

Bishop of London's Magnanimous Act.

The reader will find in Dr. Gordon Hake's "Memoirs of Eighty Years" an anecdote related of Lord Bloomfield, Bishop of London about a hundred years ago, in which is to be seen a striking trait of the British character. Imprisonment for debt was not in accordance with the bishop's sense of right. He would not yield his principles even when he was in Italy, where he could not be held responsible for the laws.

I was told by one of the family a singular anecdote of the bishop, writes Doctor Hake. When he was at Rome he was invited to a banquet by the cardinals, and while the company gathered he learned accidentally that the dining-hall was over the debtor's prison.

His anger at once burst forth and knew no bounds. He, a prelate of the Church of England, was insulted. He had been asked to dine over the heads of those wretched prisoners, who, during the feast, would be pining in their narrow cells.

His hosts naturally explained that such an affront was not intended by them; but he was not to be pacified. At last his course was determined on. He would remain where he was until a full list of all the prisoners' debts was brought to him. For this he waited sulkily, and when it arrived he wrote a cheque for the entire amount.

The prison doors were opened, and he sat down.

SERVED HER RIGHT.

It seems a pity to attempt to point out the moral of the following story, for its lesson so much depends on the experience of the individual reader. A gentleman wished to make his wife a present of a lace scarf, but had no desire to pay an extravagant price.

"I want you to buy a new lace scarf for Cousin Amelia," he said to his wife. "Choose something nice—something you would get for yourself."

The wife, however, had her own ideas as to generosity in buying presents, and the purchase, when she made it, consisted of a very simple article.

"H'm!" said the husband. "Is that what you would have chosen for yourself?"

"Exactly!" she replied. "Well, my dear, keep it. I meant it for you," he exclaimed, with an amiable smile.

mania only. The eucalyptus trees are so abundant in many parts of Australia that over vast areas they are practically

THE ONLY TREES VISIBLE.

The fact that the fully developed trees are destitute of symmetry and beauty robs the great Australian wooded regions of that attractiveness and charm which give such pleasure and delight to the primitive forests of America.

One striking characteristic of several varieties of the eucalyptus, we are told, is that, while they do not shed their leaves, they slough off their bark in long strips every year. The leaves which have a leathery appearance, contain a volatile oil with a bitter aromatic taste, which is used as a remedy for various diseases.

The Eucalyptus globulus, generally called the blue gum, from its bluish-green leaves, is the variety most successfully grown in California. It has also been introduced and flourishes in India, Natal, Egypt, Algeria, and in various parts of Southern Europe and in some other warm countries. It cannot stand the frost, and so must be classed among tropical trees. Perhaps only in the States of Florida and California can we expect to see it in perfection in this country; yet although its introduction into California has been of but recent date, already its value to that State has been very considerable. Its growth here has been so rapid that trees of 80 feet in height and over a foot in diameter have developed from the small planting of a dozen years. Its rapid growth makes it to those lands where in so many instances there was such a great lack of forest trees of general utility. In California its timber is being extensively used for telegraph poles, railroad ties, for fencing purposes, and in the manufacture of some kinds of furniture.

Some of the species of eucalyptus are much more valuable than others. There is also a great diversity both in their appearance and worth. One of the most valuable is the Eucalyptus marginata, popularly called the Jarrah wood. It grows to a great size and its timber is so hard that it is found to be especially valuable in the construction of wharves, as it resists the attack of ship worms and borers that are so destructive to ordinary wood. Because of this quality it also enters largely into the construction of ships and is utilized in other marine uses.

Some varieties of the eucalyptus yield a kind of astringent gum or resin called Viro, while from others a species of manna—a hard, little, sweet substance—is obtained in considerable quantities. As an antidote against malaria and as being valuable in warding off or dissipating malaria in regions where malaria abounds, the eucalyptus has obtained a considerable reputation.

Hostess.—"It's beginning to rain. You'll get wet. I think you'd better stay to dinner." Departing Guest—"Oh, dear, no! It's not raining so badly as all that!"

ning of October to pay a visit to a friend in Moscow. The famous Russian has for many years led a peaceful and quiet life on his estate at Yasnaya Polyana, which is situated about 130 miles south of Moscow, amid forests and surrounded by beautiful hilly country, devoting his time between writing and outdoor labor, clad in the picturesque blue smock of the Russian peasant. Tolstoy, however, while refusing to mix with the world, is ever ready to receive visitors. The consequence is that although Yasnaya Polyana is by no means easy of access, many pilgrims find their way thither to pay their respects to the preacher of obedience to Christian principles.

In a little cottage of the simplest kind at Bromley, Kent, lives Prince Kropotkin, the famous Russian exile, whose revolutionary teachings led to several terms of imprisonment, while serving one of which he escaped to England. The Prince rarely leaves his Bromley home, where he writes his books and indulges in his favorite hobbies of book-binding and carpentry. He is a man who has suffered even more than Tolstoy for his ideas, and still seeks by his writings to ameliorate the conditions under which the Russian peasant lives.

TOLSTOY AND KROPOTKIN.

remind one very much of Bjornson, the famous Norwegian poet, who hides himself from the world in a little house in Christiania. Bjornson was an intimate friend of Tolstoy and never cared for the social world. He has a great contempt for a man who seeks social triumphs and since Ibsen's death has become even more strict in his seclusion. He seldom leaves his study or receives friends.

Maurice Maeterlinck, who has been called the "Belgian Shakespeare," has immured himself in Normandy at a ruined abbey, which he has made his home. Now and again he gives the world some new masterpiece, but people seldom have an opportunity of seeing the genius who has made for himself a name as one of the greatest of living thinkers.

THE BEET AS FOOD.

The beet beats all. It is one of the most valuable of cultivated plants. The sugar beet is a main source of sugar and alcohol. The large forage beets supply an excellent food for cattle and the red garden varieties provide savory table vegetables. The usefulness of this valuable food has now been increased by the production of an edible flour from sugar beets. The desiccation of sliced sugar beets is practised in Germany on an extensive scale, but the product is employed exclusively as fodder for cattle. In Belgium a meal is made from dried beets. It is entirely free from the distinctive flavor of the beet and is suitable for cakes, puddings and pastry. As it contains about 65 per cent. of sugar it can often be substituted with advantage for sugar in somewhat larger quantities. The processes of desiccation and grinding not only cost less than the extraction of sugar, but preserve all the sugar of the beet, part of which is rejected in the form of molasses in the process of sugar making.

USES DISEASE CARRIED BY FLY FROM ERIN'S GREEN ISLE

THEORY OF SAVANT INVESTIGATING PELLAGRA.

First Assumption Was That It Was Caused by Eating of Moldy Corn.

Sponsored by a representative committee of Europe's foremost medical and scientific experts, a determined effort is to be made to trace the real origin of pellagra, a disease which recently created wide discussion owing to the initial assumption that one of its prime causes was to be found in the consumption of corn, especially when the grain was in a damaged condition. Under the auspices of this central organization Dr. L. W. Sambon, of London, who now contends that the disease is communicated to man probably by sand flies, just as the "sleeping sickness" is carried by the tsetse fly, and his assistants will proceed to a pellagrous area in order to carefully and extensively investigate every phase of the dread disease and seek to find its cure.

SCOURGE WIDELY PREVALENT

For a considerable time past, it is stated, pellagra has prevailed extensively in Lombardy and other parts of northern Italy, in the Asturias, in Gascony, Roumania and Corfu. It is common in lower Egypt, where in certain villages Dr. Sandwith found as much as 36 per cent. of the inhabitants to be affected. Dr. Lavinder found it still more common in upper Egypt. Drs. Cuthbert Brown and G. C. Low have recognized it in Barbadoes, and several other authors have mentioned its occurrence among the Zulus and Basutos of South Africa, while Dr. U. Ray observed several cases during a brief stay in north Behar, in India.

An exchange of views by those gentlemen who form the investigation committee tended to the conclusion that the malady is essentially of a chronic character and chiefly affects cultivators of the soil. A large number of pallagrous peasants end their days in lunatic asylums, while many more drag out a miserable existence in their native villages. The changes discovered after death have been of such a character as to indicate a general tissue degeneration, more especially of the brain and nervous system.

The tendency to melancholy, imbecility or mania and the curiously mummified state of the body are quite peculiar to the disease, and point to some special cause for the group of symptoms with which they are associated.

BASIS FOR MAIZE THEORY.

For many years it was assumed that this cause was to be found in the extensive use of maize, often of damaged maize, as a staple article of diet among the populations chiefly affected, and this view derived plausibility from the conditions existing in Lombardy, where the food of the peasantry has consisted largely of the more worthless varieties of this grain of their own growing, grown late, harvested before maturity, stored carelessly in its wet state, and either made into a

THE PORHYDROMETER.

Will Determine the Weight of a Ship's Cargo.

Shipping circles have been interested in the remarkable invention of an Italian engineer, Emilio di Lorenzi, the function of which is to determine accurately the weight of a ship's cargo. The device is extremely simple. In the centre of the vessel is a cylindrical chamber extending from a point below the light-loadline, which denotes the empty vessel, to one above the maximum loadline. In the chamber is a float or aerometer, the upper end of which is connected with one extremity of a lever, while the other end acts upon a steel-yard similar to those used in ordinary weighing-machines. The float-chamber is connected by some suitable means with the water in which the vessel is floating, so that the water-level within the chamber may always be at the same level as that outside. When the vessel is loaded or the cargo discharged, this action brings about a more or less immersion of the float, thereby indicating fluctuations in the weight of the cargo. These differences are recorded on the steel-yard, and show the weight of the load taken on board or removed from the ship. It will be seen that by this ingenious arrangement the ship is really converted into a gigantic weighbridge, and the apparatus is so sensitive that it will notify the weight of a person stepping on or off the ship. The device is applicable to any class of vessel from the barge to the gigantic liner, and in every instance will perform its task with remarkable accuracy. The aerometer, which is the "mainspring" of the apparatus, has to be specially designed in regard to its external shape and so forth for the vessel upon which it is installed, but otherwise all the parts are standardized. Once set the machine can never become deranged, and varying densities of the water do not affect the accuracy of its readings. The device was thoroughly tested by the Italian Government, and the readings were found to be so correctly given that the Customs were authorized to accept any readings by porhydrometer. This is a vital consideration to shipping-men, for there is a difference of 200 per cent. in weighings at Italian ports in favor of this instrument. To the captain compelled to coal abroad it acts as an infallible check upon the quantity of coal delivered to the ship, and its utility is still further increased by the fact that in the event of the vessel so equipped springing a leak it will instantly notify the captain by ringing an electric alarm-bell. Being inexpensive and easily fitted, it should form an indispensable acquisition to the up-to-date ship.

WOMEN THE MOST BRAVE

WHICH OF THE TWO IS THE MOST COURAGEOUS?

Incidents Show That Woman Has the Greater Courage of Endurance.

Courage is one of the finest qualities of the human race; but woman is afraid of a mouse, a spider, or a beetle. How can her courage ever equal man's, or, as some claim, surpass it?

The broad facts prove, however, that whilst the world owes much to its men of courage, women have frequently superior moral courage, and often show physical courage of the highest order.

Woman, it is true, accomplishes far less frequently such feats as life-saving from fire or water at personal peril. Her sphere is so much narrower than man's, and she is brought less often into contact with outer danger than he is. Besides, she is hampered by her clothing.

Ask a brave man to accomplish feats of physical courage in a woman's trailing skirt and tight garments: he will tell you that this is a most unfair request.

THE ARM OF KATE DOUGLAS.

Notwithstanding these impediments, however, when occasion arises woman is not inferior to man in physical courage, but throws herself recklessly into danger. We need only recall the thrilling exploits of the women during the days of the French Revolution, how some of them, dressed as men, fought battles, how others accomplished the most heroic feats to protect the lives of the men they loved.

Who has not admired Catharine Douglas, who, when James II. of Scotland, at Perth, asked the ladies to defend him, put her arm through the staples of the door when the bar was broken.

But courage is not the less true because passive. The highest effort is not encouraged by flourish of trumpets; the greater and more difficult courage is silent, it is moral courage, nor is it heroic, as the world understands that word.

The sports which form part of the education of the youth of England are a powerful factor in training courage. Ary Scheffer, the great French painter, in writing to his daughter, says: "Dear child, may your games also teach you to be of good courage."

Woman has certainly the greater courage of endurance. Who but a woman can have the courage to continue doing the tasks of every day existence when great sorrows have come into her life. It is not that a man does not suffer, but he has an outside world to absorb his attention, and a woman must bear her sorrow and the burden of every-day life.

She may be afraid of a mouse, but experience has proved that woman can be as enduring as man under the heaviest trials and calamities.

NO FEAR OF COLLISION

BRITISH ASTRONOMER RIDICULES THE COMET SCARE.

Sir Robert Ball Says Earth May be in Tail About May 12th, and Hopes It Will.

Sir Robert Ball, professor of astronomy at Cambridge University, does not share the alarmist views of Camille Flammarion, the French astronomer, and others with regard to the result of a collision between the earth and Halley's comet. He has received multitudes of letters on the subject, and this is the reply he has sent to one anxious enquirer:—

"A rhinoceros in full charge would not fear collision with a cobweb, and the earth need not fear collision with a comet.

"In 1861 we passed through the tail of a comet, and no one knew anything about it at the time.

"For a hundred million years life has been continuous on this earth, though we have been visited by at least five comets every year. If comets could ever have done the earth any harm they would have done it long ago, and you and I would not be discussing comets or anything else.

"I hope this letter will give you the assurance you want. So far as I can learn we may be in the tail of Halley about May 12, and I sincerely hope we shall.

"I think Sir John Herschel said somewhere that the whole comet could be squeezed into a portmanteau."

WANTED COMET REMOVED.

Next to the story of the Italian village crowd who hissed the comet 1916 A because it obstinately refused to appear from behind a cloud bank, and who clapped their hands vigorously when at last it became visible, must be placed on record a formal written complaint handed in by a night watchman at Goedello, Hungary, to the local magistrate. The man's grievance was that the comet interfered with the proper discharge of his duty as a watchman at night. In his own words:—

"The news of the appearance of the comet has plunged everybody in the neighborhood into great consternation, and the people, driven mad, run about the streets all night. Therefore I must request the Minister of the Interior to be so kind as to ask the Meteorological Bureau to have the goodness to remove this dangerous comet from the neighborhood of Hungary."

War. At Arva (County Cavan) petty sessions recently, a number of people were brought up on summons in connection with the recent riot at Arva. A posse of over 60 police were drafted into the district for the occasion.

At Cavan Quarter Sessions, Judge Drummond, K. C., awarded 8600 compensation to be levied off the County Leitrim at large, a claim for the alleged malicious burning of a quantity of hay and farming implements.

A man named Canavan and his wife, both aged about 50 years, together with their son, aged 9 years, were found suffocated in a small room in their house at Admore, Kilkerrin, recently. A pot of fire stood in the centre of the floor.

THE LORD OF THE JUNGLE.

A Hunter Tells of the Tiger's Penetrating Moan.

"I have seen a tiger, sitting up a hundred yards from me in the sunlight, washing his face like a cat, move a couple of steps into the shade, and fade away like the Ceshire cat in 'Alice in Wonderland'; but what is more extraordinary is that he can move without some dry leaf or stalk crackling to betray him," says a writer in the London Times.

"Often in a beat in the middle of the hot season the inexperienced sportsman's heart is in his mouth as he hears the crushing of a dead leaf, the slow, stealthy tread of what seems some heavy animal; but it is only 'moan,' the peacock, the first to move ahead of the beaters. Then after a period of strained watching, when the eye can and does detect the move of the tiniest bird, the quiver of a leaf, suddenly, without a sound, the great beast stands before you.

"He does not always care to move quietly, but when he does death is not more silent.

"The question of how a white or otherwise abnormally marked tiger can take its prey is simplified by the fact that as a general rule the tiger kills at night or at dawn or dusk, and that it is only the cattle-killing tiger who takes his lordly toll of the village cattle by day.

"Again, that wonderful voice, the most mournful sound in captivity, which literally hushes the jungle and fills the twilight with horror, is a powerful aid to him in his hunting. Often I have heard it. The memory of one occasion is as vivid as the moment when it held me spellbound.

"I was stalking sambur in the evening in a glade in the forest, when suddenly, from not fifty yards above me, rang out a long, low, penetrating moan which seemed to fill the jungle with a terrifying thrill, and for a moment made the heart stand still.

"The native shikaree, who in spite of Mowgli's contempt may know something of jungle ways, believes that the deer, hearing the tiger's voice, and unable from the reverberating nature of the sound to locate the position of their enemy, stand or lie still, and so give him the chance of stalking his prey.

"There is probably some truth in this, for unless you are following the tiger and have seen him, it is almost impossible from the sound alone to tell with any certainty where he is."

AN EARL AS A LANDLORD.

An Appalling Indictment Against Owner of 39,000 Acres.

A grave indictment has been brought against the Earl of Feversham by Dr. W. S. Wheaton, one of the Local Government Board Inspectors of Great Britain.

The Earl is the owner of 39,000 acres in Yorkshire, and the estate comprises the town of Helmsley and a large number of villages. The condition of many of the dwellings, according to the official report, is of an appalling character. The most serious part of the affair is that at the time the indictment was made the Earl of Feversham was chairman of the rural district council which has jurisdiction over the area concerned.

Dr. Wheaton's report states that the worst dwellings were in three villages owned by the Earl of Feversham. Nearly all were dilapidated, the walls damp, the roofs of decayed thatch. Many houses were without back doors or back windows, so that there was no through ventilation. The windows were very small, and often would not open. The walls of the dwellings were greatly dilapidated, and in several instances he saw houses occupied portions of the walls of which had fallen down.

In contrast to the hovels which the Local Government Inspector describes is Duncombe Park, the palatial Yorkshire seat of the Earl of Feversham, near Helmsley. Macaulay once described it as "a palace more spendid than had ever been inhabited by the magnificent Villiers."

She may be afraid of a mouse. Her experience has proved that woman can be as enduring as man under the heaviest trials and calamities.

THE USES OF ADVERSITY.

The writer knew intimately a certain lady who at the height of prosperity was fussy, exacting, domineering, despising all those who were inferior to her. When her husband lost his fortune, her character changed altogether. She became devoted to her husband and her children, gay, amiable, generous. She worked untiringly for fifteen years to support her family, whilst the husband entirely collapsed, and spent his life lamenting the fact that she had to work.

Whatever we may think about the Nihilists, we cannot gainsay that physical and moral strength is required to be a militant Nihilist. It is a fact that among the miserable exiles in Siberia many more women survive than men. The men yield to despair, die rapidly, commit suicide, or become mad. The women, with greater moral courage and more endurance, never cease to hope against all the heavy odds.

Mr. Hemans' stirring story of Gertrude von der Warten is most beautiful. Her husband was falsely accused and condemned to be broken on the wheel, and for two whole agonizing days and nights she remained at his side, comforting him with her presence and words of love.

What courage can be compared to this heroism, and what man could have done such a thing, even had he desired to be as strong?—London Answers.

ONE OR THE OTHER.

Have you ever run into someone in the street, and then dodged from side to side for half a minute, vainly endeavoring to pass, while the other person, by some strange fatality, blocked your every move by trying to pass you in the same way?

Such was the experience of a young man the other day. He and a nice young lady had been going through this performance for several seconds, when his unwilling vis-a-vis staggered him by saying:

"Well, hurry up! Which is it to be—a waltz or a two-step?"

FEEDING WARM MASH.

A serious mistake, made by many poultrymen is the feeding of warm mash the first thing in the morning. It is natural for a hen to gorge herself on warm mash, when she will dump in the corner of the house all the rest of the day. Feed whole grain in a litter for the morning feed. If you think that you must feed a warm mash feed it at noon, but in small quantities. The warm mash is going out of favor with practical feeders.

A fellow whose appearance warranted the belief that he had quarrelled with soap and water some years ago applied for a position as porter with a large concern where help was badly needed. The manager looked him over doubtfully. Finally he handed him half a dollar. "Go up town and take a bath," he told him. "Then come back, and maybe I'll be able to take you on." The fellow started for the door. "And, oh, by the way," the manager called after him, "if there's any change left take another bath."

Sheep Raising As A Business.

The mild winter in Nova Scotia has been very favorable to the growth of the fine soft wool for which the Province is famous. The Manager of the Hewson Woollen Mills is particularly happy over this condition of affairs, as his factory uses so much of this choice wool in Hewson Tweeds and Underwear. There are great opportunities for profitable sheep-raising in Nova Scotia.

Roofing.

Potter and Blanchard, early last week, received and delivered to their numerous patrons, a car load of the justly celebrated Galvanized Steel Shingles, manufactured by the Pedlar Metal Roofing Co. of Oshawa. The car contained 405 squares. These shingles are giving the best satisfaction to all who have used them. If properly laid on roof they cannot leak, they cannot blow off, and they will not rust. They are doubtless far superior to any other make of steel shingles. As an evidence of their popularity this is the tenth car load delivered by Potter and Blanchard and within the past three years. Parties who intend doing any roofing the coming season would do well to call and examine these goods before placing their orders elsewhere.

Stole Horses and Buggies.

On Saturday afternoon Messrs. Melton Joyce and John Bush, farmers of Richmond, missed their horses and buggies from the Royal Hotel sheds. Chief Graham was notified of the occurrence and began inquiries and it was not long before he met some farmers who had seen two youths with horses and buggies driving north. Chief Graham and constable Geo. Greer immediately followed them and caught the fugitives at VandeBogart's ranch about forty miles from Napanee at 10 o'clock Saturday night. They brought their prisoners, Messrs. Herbert H. Johnston and Frederick Johnston, sons of Mr. Noah Johnston, youths of fifteen and seventeen years of age to Napanee. On Monday the prisoners appeared before Police Magistrate Rankin who sentenced the eldest one to two years in Kingston penitentiary and the younger one to two years in the Industrial School, Mimico.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

NAPANEE-RINK, LIMITED.

A general meeting of the shareholders was held in the town hall, on Friday evening, March 11th, at 8 p.m.
Mr. John W. Robinson was elected chairman of this meeting and C. M.
Warner, secretary.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The work done by the provisional directors was on motion approved.

The shareholders then passed a set of seven by-laws which are to govern the transactions of the company.

The following directors were elected to serve until May 1911:—J. W. Robinson, R. G. Travers, R. C. Cartwright, W. C. Smith, J. B. Allison, T. B.
Wallace, H. Daly, C. M. Warner.

A general discussion followed the election and all present were enthusiastic over the work which is to be done.

The question of raising the balance of the funds needed to construct this rink was carefully considered. Of course it is desirable that as much stock should be sold as possible.
There must be a great many young men in Napanea who can afford to subscribe for one or two of the $10 shares of this company, and who are anxious to have the rink built. Don't wait to be approached in this matter.
Go to headquarters and put your name down and get your friends to do the same. It is impossible to call on every one, but those who have done the preliminary work have still a tremendous amount of work to do.
So help them all you can, and next December when the good people of Napanea are just entering on another long winter season they will have a skating rink where the greatest of all Canadian winter sports, skating and hockey, can be enjoyed. Let every citizen do his or her part.

Growers Attention!

We are now contracting for the growing of Corn, Peas, Beans, Tomatoes and Strawberries for the Canning factory for the season, 1910 and would ask all intending to grow to call at once and arrange as we are wanting to have all contracting, closed by April first.

There is every indication of a very early spring which necessitates your early decision as to what you intend growing, besides it is now time hot beds were started in order that a good hardy plant may be secured for early setting. I will be at T. Symington's store the balance of this month and will be pleased to give contracts to all our old growers as well as many new ones, as we wish to largely increase our acreage.

The factory will continue to run under the old management, everything being conducted as usual.

Don't delay in calling as we have a great many contracts already made.

Golf Club.

The annual meeting of the Napanee Golf Club was held on Monday, March 14th. The following officers were elected for the present year:

President—Rev. F. T. Dibb
Vice-President—W. A. Bellhouse.
Sec'y-Treas.—C. M. Warner.

Members of Board of Governors—H. Paly, D. L. Hill, W. C. Smith, R. A. Leonard, J. W. Robinson and R. G. H. Travers.

The Club passed a resolution permitting new members who have never played golf to join for $5, same to be the full charge for the first year. The annual report of the treasurer showed the Club to be in good financial condition, and the Club's prospects seem very bright.

A Sad Death.

On Tuesday Edith Alexandrina Dibb, eldest daughter of Rev. and Mrs. F. T. Dibb, fell asleep in Jesus. She was taken ill some months ago with diabetes and though her health improved somewhat so that she was able to be around, a few days ago she took suddenly worse and on Tuesday she passed peacefully away. Deceased was a bright lovable girl beloved by her young companions and by all who knew her, and her early death casts a gloom over the happy home. Mr. and Mrs. Dibb have the sincere sympathy of all in this their hour of sorrow. The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon, services being held in St. Mary Magdalene's church. The floral tributes from friends and relatives were very numerous and magnificent.

Death of E. Wagar.

After a long illness Mr. Ephraim Wagar, South Napanee, passed away on Monday last, aged 50 years, 3 months and 16 days. Deceased had suffered intensely from Bright's disease and several times in the past couple of years he was near death, but his iron constitution pulled him through and he was able to resume work only to be taken with another attack in a few weeks. Mr. Wagar had been an employee of the Gibbard Furniture Co. for a long number of years and was one of the firm's most valued employees. Mr. Wagar was also for a number of years a member of the Napanee fire brigade and an honorary member at the time of his death. Deceased was also a prominent member of Argyll Lodge No. 212, I.O.O.F. and a Forester. The funeral took place from his late residence on Wednesday afternoon, services were held in the Western Methodist Church and the remains placed in the Riverside cemetery vault. The members of the Napanee Oddfellows Lodges, The Foresters, the Firemen and the Gibbard Co. employees, attended the funeral in a body and seldom has there been a larger number of men at a funeral. A number of beautiful floral offerings were placed on the casket by the Firemen, Oddfellows, Foresters and the Gibbard Furniture Co. Besides his widow, deceased leaves three children, Mrs. C. A. Walters, Miss Kathleen Wagar and Mr. Luther Wagar, who have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their sad bereavement.

MARLBANK.

The snow is about all gone. The farmers are busying themselves by way of sugar making and cutting up summer wood.

During the few short winter months several from our village have been called away, whose smiling faces we are never to see any more.

Quite a few are still on the sick list. We are pleased to hear that Mr. Geo. Wallace, of White Lake, who had to undergo an operation at Kingston hospital a few days ago is getting better, and has returned to his home.

Also Mr. Darlington, of this place, who has been at the hospital, Belle-ville, having one of his legs amputated, we learn is rapidly improving.

Messrs. John and Robert McFarlane have had the contract of cutting the logs at the mill and have about completed their job, and are getting ready for removal.

Quite a number of men from this place left on Monday morning of last week for Port Colborne, where they intend spending the summer months at the cement works.

Mr. John Burns and wife, of Point Ann, are spending a few days visiting friends at Marlbank.

Mr. Dell Cook, of Point Ann, spent Sunday last at his home in this place.

Messrs. Fred Loyst and George Mowers, formerly of Point Ann, are spending a few weeks at home and intend going to Winnipeg about April 1st.

Mr. Robert Wayte, of Lime Lake, who has been located at Saskatchewan and who has been spending the winter months with his mother, and visiting friends in this section, we are sorry to say intends returning home in a few days.
